The gingerbread cookies missing for the past two weeks from Victoria Street School were finally located last Wednesday by their Grade 1 friends. The cookies were at the Dysart library, and they were soon returned to the school. They ended up in the stomachs of the youngsters, who are looking forward to other adventures in learning their teachers may come up with in the rest of the year.

Parents worry over dams, ask board to take action

A group of concerned citizens is asking the Haliburton County Board of Education to do something about the possible danger to students at Victoria Street School posed by beaver ponds above a creek that flows through the school yard. The dams have been breached by heavy rainfall on at least two occasions, resulting in property damage along the watershed, particularly to Kennedy Surplus and Exchange. However, the flooding so far has not taken place at times when the school yard has been occupied by youngsters.

In a written presentation bearing 88 signatures, the group notes that had students been in the school yard when the flooding took place, "there could most certainly have been a loss of life."

The group says its research, assisted by the Ministry of Natural Resources, indicates that at any time, there may be as much as 43 acres of surface water held back by beaver dams on the watershed above Victoria Street School. The 43 acres of water would have a surface area of more than 1.8 million square feet, or more than 13 million gallons of water if it were only a foot deep.

"Based on a calculated depth at the lowermost beaver dam of six feet, this would result in the possible retention of 131,115,000 gallons of water being held upstream from the school yard," the group says in its presentation to the board. "Given the right circumstances all of that water, or part thereof, could be released at any time. This quantity of water may totally flood the school yard presently used, to a life-endangering level."

In concluding its brief, the group notes that it is the board's responsibility to provide "the utmost safety" for children in its jurisdiction, and asks trustees for a formal response, directed to the Haliburton Home and School Association.

Ray Selbie, one of the people who signed the letter, said the issue has been considered in the past but neither the owners of the land where the ponds are located, the Ministry of Natural Resources, the municipality nor the board of education has been able to find a solution to the problem.

"I think everybody is to a certain extent responsible," Selbie said. "We want everybody to take a look at it on a concerted basis."

Stuart Baker, director of Education for the Haliburton board, said that "as a precautionary measure" in light of the unusually heavy rainfall in the past few weeks, "we're not using the lower playing field at all" at Victoria Street School. He said the action is "restrictive", since it limits the play area available to youngsters, but is not an "impossible situation."

Baker said he has talked to the Ministry of Natural Resources about the situation, and "they don't really have any particular advice" to offer.

The letter from the group of concerned parents will be considered at the board's next regular meeting.

Sewer line is delayed

Construction of a much-needed sewer line to service commercial properties from the western end of Haliburton to the resorts on the North Shore of Lake Kashagawigamog will not begin until next spring.

When provincial approval of the project was announced last spring there had been some optimism that the work could begin by this fall, but preparatory work, including the securing of necessary property easements, has not yet been completed.

Dysart reeve Murray Fearrey said once the easements have been obtained a meeting with the owners who will be serviced by the new line will be called.

The line will service only commercial properties, principally resorts and lodges, whose owners will share a portion of construction costs through a multi-year levy. Residential properties adjacent to the line will not connect to it, but will continue to use septic beds or other means of sewage disposal.

It is expected that construction of the line will pave the way for substantial expansion programs at several of the lodges, with the most major expansion likely to take place at PineStone Inn.

Two people killed in accidents last week

Two people died in separate accidents in Haliburton County last week. On Tuesday, a 69 year old RR2, Minden man was killed in a single car accident near West Guilford, and on Sunday, a Brampton man drowned in a canoeing accident on South Lake.

Richard Haywood was east-bound on Highway 118 when he failed to negotiate a curve and his 1986 Ford entered the ditch. Haywood was thrown from the vehicle when it rolled over and died of his injuries.

Lost gingerbread found at last, great adventure ends in feast!

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

If Gingersnap and Gingerpop had any idea of what the fates had in store for them, they might not have been so willing to be found resting on the library shelves last week. Within minutes of being brought home to their Grade 1 classrooms at Victoria Street School, the two gingerbread cookies were quickly gobbled up by the 48 students who had searched the streets of Haliburton looking for them.

Two weeks ago, the students were saddened to read a note left for them in the school oven, where they had lovingly put the cookies in to cook, full of great expectations about the mouth-watering treat to be had that afternoon. The oven was too hot, the cookies complained and they had decided to run away.

But knowing there was no place like home, Gingersnap and Gingerpop said that throughout the next weeks, they would leave clues around the village, hinting at where they could be found.

The children searched high and low throughout their classrooms and their school for the two cookies, not believing that anyone would run away from them, least of all two gingerbread cookies. Excitement was running high for never had anything like this happened to them before.

Soon they decided they would need some help and got quickly to work, colouring posters describing what the cookies looked like and asking for any information leading to the discovery of their whereabouts.

After a visit to the Echo office, where the young students placed a 'Lost' Classified ad and had a tour of the building, they marched onto the main street, dropping in at different stores and offices, asking the owners to give them their full co-operation in sniffing out their two mischievous friends.

One mother felt so sorry for them, she baked them some smaller gingerbread cookies to munch on while they continued their tireless search for Gingersnap and Gingerpop.

Meanwhile in the classroom, the children were learning how to read all about gingerbread cookies and their math lessons were spent counting cookies, instead of perhaps apples or balls. As a matter of fact, when you looked at their lessons, there always seemed to be something incorporated into them about the plight of lost gingerbread cookies. One of their homework assignments was to find the ad they had placed in the Echo.

Not all their lessons focused on just the cookies either. When they returned from their walk downtown, they were asked to draw some of the stores they had visited, having to remember what sequence they were in along the street. Could groceries be bought beside clothing or after you put your allowance in the bank did you turn right or left to buy some candy? Many of the children had walked down the street with their parents, but now they had to pay attention to exactly where the stores were and what you could buy in each of them.

Their first big break came when they were sent a rhyming message telling them to go down to the park to find a new clue. Under the guidance of their teachers, Cathy Boake and Bonnie

Echo will be closed on Thanksgiving

The Haliburton County Echo will appear one day later than usual next week because of the Thanksgiving holiday. Subscriber mailing and newsdealer distribution will take place on Thursday rather than Wednesday for next week's issue, in order that the newspaper's staff can enjoy the holiday with their families.

The Echo office will be closed on Monday, October 13. Our deadline for classified and display advertising for next week's issue will be Tuesday at 5 p.m. rather than Monday.

May we take this opportunity to wish all our readers a safe and enjoyable holiday weekend.

This beaver pond east of Haliburton village is one of several that have parents at Victoria Street School concerned. The parents want the Board of Education to see if something can be done to reduce the risks of the dams being breached and water flooding Victoria Street School yard and posing a danger to youngsters. The children are not using the lower school yard at the moment because of unusually heavy rains in the past few weeks.

NEWS

Police News

During the week of September 29 to October 5, officers of Minden Detachment investigated: 41 general occurrences including six break, enter and thefts, two 12 hour suspensions, three liquor violations, one impaired driver, three vandilisms and 10 motor vehicle accidents resulting in one death and five persons injured.

Damage

Damage is estimated in excess of $1500 to portions of the Haliburton-Sky Slider. The damage occurred on Sunday October 5 at about 5:15 p.m. when large rocks were thrown down the track. Three male persons riding in a brown pick up truck with white cap are being sought for questioning.

Sexual Assault

An incident on September 14 at a cottage on Buckslide Road has resulted in a Toronto man being charged with sexual assault on a female. Charged is Steven Nilsson, age 29 who is to appear in Provincial Court Minden on November 12, 1986.

Forests to be lecture topic

Boreal forest management - the key to a vibrant forest industry and a healthy environment - will be the topic of a lecture given by Forestry Consultant George T. Marek, R.P.F. at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Lindsay, Wednesday October 15, 1986 at 7:30 p.m.

Marek's premise suggests that the forester return to the forest to manage integrated plant, soil and logging practices. He maintains that the future of the resource depends on intensive management and multi-purpose utilization such as parks and logging. European agro-forestry methods using agricultural principles (eg. fertilizing) are also instrumental in managing productive forest land.

Marek's lecture will be of general interest, since the forest management principles he talks about can be applied to the management of all renewable resources. A dynamic speaker, he will also present the results of the recent highly publicized Baskerville Report: The Audit of the Management of the Crown Forests of Ontario.

Admission is free to anyone wishing to attend. Sir Sandford Fleming College's School of Natural Resources is located south on Albert Street in Lindsay.

The Minden Lions Club staged its second annual Walk-a-dog-a-thon on Sunday to raise funds for Canine Vision Canada, an organization that trains seeing eye dogs for blind people. Despite the cold weather and the threat of rain, a number of pooches and their owners trekked the four mile route to Nesbitt's farm and back to the arena.

Fitzgerald, the two Grade 1 classes headed off for more grand adventures. Many had not visited the park before and when they got there, they soon discovered pieces of paper with letters written on them. Upon their arrival back at the school, they quickly tried to solve the puzzle, gluing letters onto a paper to spell the word gingerbread. They were hot on the trail but Gingersnap and Gingerpop were giving them a run for their money, enjoying their freedom and the havoc they were causing.

But as any gingerbread man and woman will tell you, it can be a pretty lonely world out there if you don't have a place you can call home. Being out on your own is fine for a few weeks but pretty soon the adventure has to stop and you must settle down to a more stable lifestyle.

So, full of great plans for their future with the two classes, they sent the final clue that they could be found resting among the shelves with some books. Sure enough, a trip to the local library found the cookies safe and sound, ready to come home to their friends.

Alas, however, the children had other plans. Even though they had missed their friends and had tried desperately to find them, there was no hesitation on their part to break the cookies into pieces and quickly eat up the last crumbs of the Great Disappearing Gingerbread Cookies. Since this adventure worked out so well (except for poor Gingersnap and Gingerpop) their teachers have thought they might try something like this again, busily trying to come up with a new idea for the next saga of Victoria Street School Adventures in Learning.

Glamorgan Township council briefs...

Glamorgan Township council considered the following matters at a recent meeting.

Design criteria for the hamlet of Gooderham street, as prepared by Totten Sims Hubicki Associates, was accepted.

By-law 86-30, a by-law to constitute a committee of adjustment was passed.

By-law 86-31, a by-law to appoint members to the committee of adjustment, also was passed.

The Reeve asked George and Hazel Sharp to outline their proposal for closure and conveyance of portions of original allowances for road abutting lands owned by Mrs. Sharp. Their application was accepted in principle, subject to final survey and an alternate right-of-way provided.

Doug and Vicki Martin were advised that Council has no objection to the sale of the whole of the portion of the abandoned C.N.R. right of way in Lot 21, Concession 6 lying east of the river subject to a legal

Dysart council briefs

At its September meeting Dysart et al council considered the following matters:

Nancy Brink was granted a one year extension allowing her to retain the outdoor garden centre as is, at her flower shop on Highland Street.

Council accepted a $130,000 (ONIP) allocation for 1986/87, and will provide the necessary supporting documents at an early date. It is anticipated the work will all take place in the spring and summer of 1987.

Permission was granted to Ian Benzie, Lot 27, Con. 4, Dysart, to construct a retaining wall and beach area in front of his property on Paradise Lake.

Permission was granted to G.V. Smith, Lot 26, Plan 462, Guilford Township, to fill flooded land 132' x 80' x 4' to create a beach area and clean up an undesirable shoreline. All the conditions outlined by Ministry of Natural Resources in their letter of August 27, 1986, must be strictly adhered to.

The next regular Council meeting was changed to Tuesday October 14.

The building inspector was authorized to issue a permit to Timothy Mayhew for a 24' x 30' building on part of Lot 29, Concession 4, Dysart (Johnson Farm).

The quotation from Haliburton Roofing (H.Franke) for repairs to the municipal garage and arena machine room roofs was accepted in the amounts of $1,730 and $1,598 respectively. Work is to be completed at the earliest possible date.

The Road Superintendent was authorized to purchase approximately 240 metric tonnes of highway coarse salt from the Canadian Salt Company at $31.78 per tonne, subject to Ministry of Transportation and Communications approval.

By-laws 86-27 and 86-28 to amend Zoning By-law No. 77-32 was passed.

Council concurred with the planning committee's recommendation regarding the application for an amendment to the zoning by-law on lands of Perry McCracken and Terry Blair. The applicant's are to provide a more comprehensive development plan to the planning committee in order that the committee may fully assess the true impact of the proposed development.

Original road allowance closures fronting on water bodies was conveyed at $100 per foot plus legal and survey costs.

Council said that should the Ministry of Natural Resources request a revision to the proposed amendment to the zoning by-law on lands owned by Williams Gold Refining Company, a further public meeting is not necessary. Adequate notice has been made available to the public. No objections or concerns have been received other than from the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Council requested a plot plan from Black's Hardware by an O.L.S. showing all building locations and setbacks prior to any decision regarding existing and proposed encroachment.

Bruce Turner was granted permission to cross the one foot reserve adjacent to his property on Part of Lot 10, Concession VIII, in the Township of Dysart.

Bruce Turner was granted permission to open and use the road allowance between Lots 10 and 11 and/or the road allowance between Concession VII and VIII across Lots 10 and 11 in the Township of Dysart provided he comply with the requirements listed in the policy book regarding this matter.

Council authorized the issuance of a building permit to Locarno Resort as per their application dated September 2, 1986. No site plan agreement is required.

Council authorized the issuance of a permit to James and Patricia Liddle for the construction of an industrial building in the industrial park as per their application

Grants okayed for cleanup

Dysart et al will get an additional $24,000 in supplementary grants from the provincial transportation ministry to help offset the cost of cleaning up debris from the tornado that swept through the area in late June.

Other supplementary grants announced recently by the MTC include $43,800 to Monmouth Township for replacement of a loader and $6,600 to Lutterworth Township to assist with the municipality's cleanup efforts.

Man drowns

On Sunday, Lorne McWilliams, age 41 of Steeles Avenue in Brampton drowned when the canoe in which he was travelling alone overturned on South Lake. Police divers recovered the body in about 10 feet of water.

Blocks are being laid for a new municipal complex in the hamlet of Gooderham. The new building will house council offices, a post office and library. The main street also is being reconstructed and drainage installed to make the community a more attractive place. The old municipal offices will be dismantled once the new building is completed.

Minden briefs...

At a meeting on Tuesday September 23, Anson, Hindon and Minden council considered the following matters:

Walter Ackerblade attended to discuss with Council the possible future of the land in Lot 13, Concession 13, Township of Minden, which has recently been surveyed. Ackerblade expressed the interest of the Estate of W. Weeks to convey one-half of this land to the municipality for public use. Council members pointed out the mutual concern that any potential claims to this land by various individuals be resolved before the municipality would agree to accept such a conveyance.

Council asked Ackerblade to resolve the potential claims which have been made known to him and which could cloud the title to this land, and subsequently return to council with a written proposal describing the limits of the property and any conditions which the Estate proposed to impose on a possible conveyance to the municipality. Reeve Sinc Nesbitt confirmed that petitioners represented by Ross Harrison would be kept informed of the status of this land.

Haliburton County Board of Education briefs

The Haliburton County Board of Education met last Tuesday and considered the following matters:

Bob Cowan made a presentation to the Board comparing the coverage offered by the Frank Cowan Insurance Company and that of the reciprocal insurance program. Present insurance coverage for the Haliburton County Board of Education terminates on December 31, 1986.

School bus charter drivers for the 1986/87 school year were approved.

The expenditures for July of $525,299.25 were approved.

The expenditures for August of $251,248.27 also were approved.

The Board approved the hiring of John Elstone to transport developmentally handicapped students and others as required at a rate of 41 cents per kilometre for the 1986/87 school year.

The Board decided to retain Frank Cowan Insurance Company as the insuring company for the Board for the 1987 year.

Designated smoking areas chosen by the staff of each school were accepted.

The School Handbook prepared for distribution to parents was approved for use.

Computer equipment for the secondary school Business Department was installed during the first week of September and is now in operation. The ICON system was installed at a cost of $80,000.

In the elementary panel $71,000 has been spent on hardware which has been added to present equipment in a number of schools. Of the $71,000, approximately $10,000 was used for equipment in schools where ICON is not used at this time.

A request has been received for the Board to enter into the Artist in the School Program during the winter term. The Board will plan co-operatively with the Guild of Fine Arts and Sir Sanford Fleming College, with the cost of the program to be shared by Board and provincial government funding. Approval in principle was given for this program. Detailed arrangements will be made during the next few months.

The board approved a salary increase of 4.1 percent for Edward MacNab, Psycho-Educational Consultant, for the period September 1, 1986 to August 31, 1987.

An increase in the rate paid for In-Car Driver Education Instruction of 4.1 percent, effective September 1, 1986, was also approved.

An overnight trip to Camp Wanakita, under the supervision of David Kennedy, was approved for the Grade 8 Science students at the J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School - October 2nd and 3rd.

Approval was given for the installation of one additional telephone line at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

The ruins of the burned out Stedmans store on Haliburton's main street have been cleaned up, and owner Vince Connaughan is making final plans to erect a new bigger store on the site. While details of the building are not yet available, he hopes the new facilities can be open by early next spring.

Seminar to focus on business

Tips, advice and methods of beginning a new business will be the focus of the starting a small business seminar on October 15 at the Wig-a-mog Inn, Haliburton. Sponsored by the Ontario Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology, in co-operation with Sir Sanford Fleming College, the seminar starts at 7 p.m.

"This seminar is of specific interest to owners of recently opened small businesses or people considering starting their own business," said Rich Ferraro, small business advocate and parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Industry, Trade and Technology. "Many such people have neither the time nor resources to discover on their own all they need to know about successful business management and these seminars are an excellent means of learning what it takes to get ahead."

Norm Rolfe of the ministry's small business advice and counsel section will conduct the seminar. There is a $10 registration fee to cover the costs of seminar materials.

Topics will include types of business structure, legal requirements, sources of financing, further sources of information and relevant resource material.

Editorials

A local view

A few months ago the editor of a community newspaper in Elmira, Ontario launched a national edition of his newspaper. The paper was to be sent, free of charge, to a cross section of people in the media and other professions across the country. The launching of this "national edition" of a small town weekly attracted a good deal of media attention, and in the first few weeks after it was launched, the paper attracted a fair number of 'voluntary' subscribers who sent in a cheque to remain on the mailing list and give the project a boost. It carried - and still carries - very little advertising, and is subsidized by income generated from other projects with which its publisher is involved.

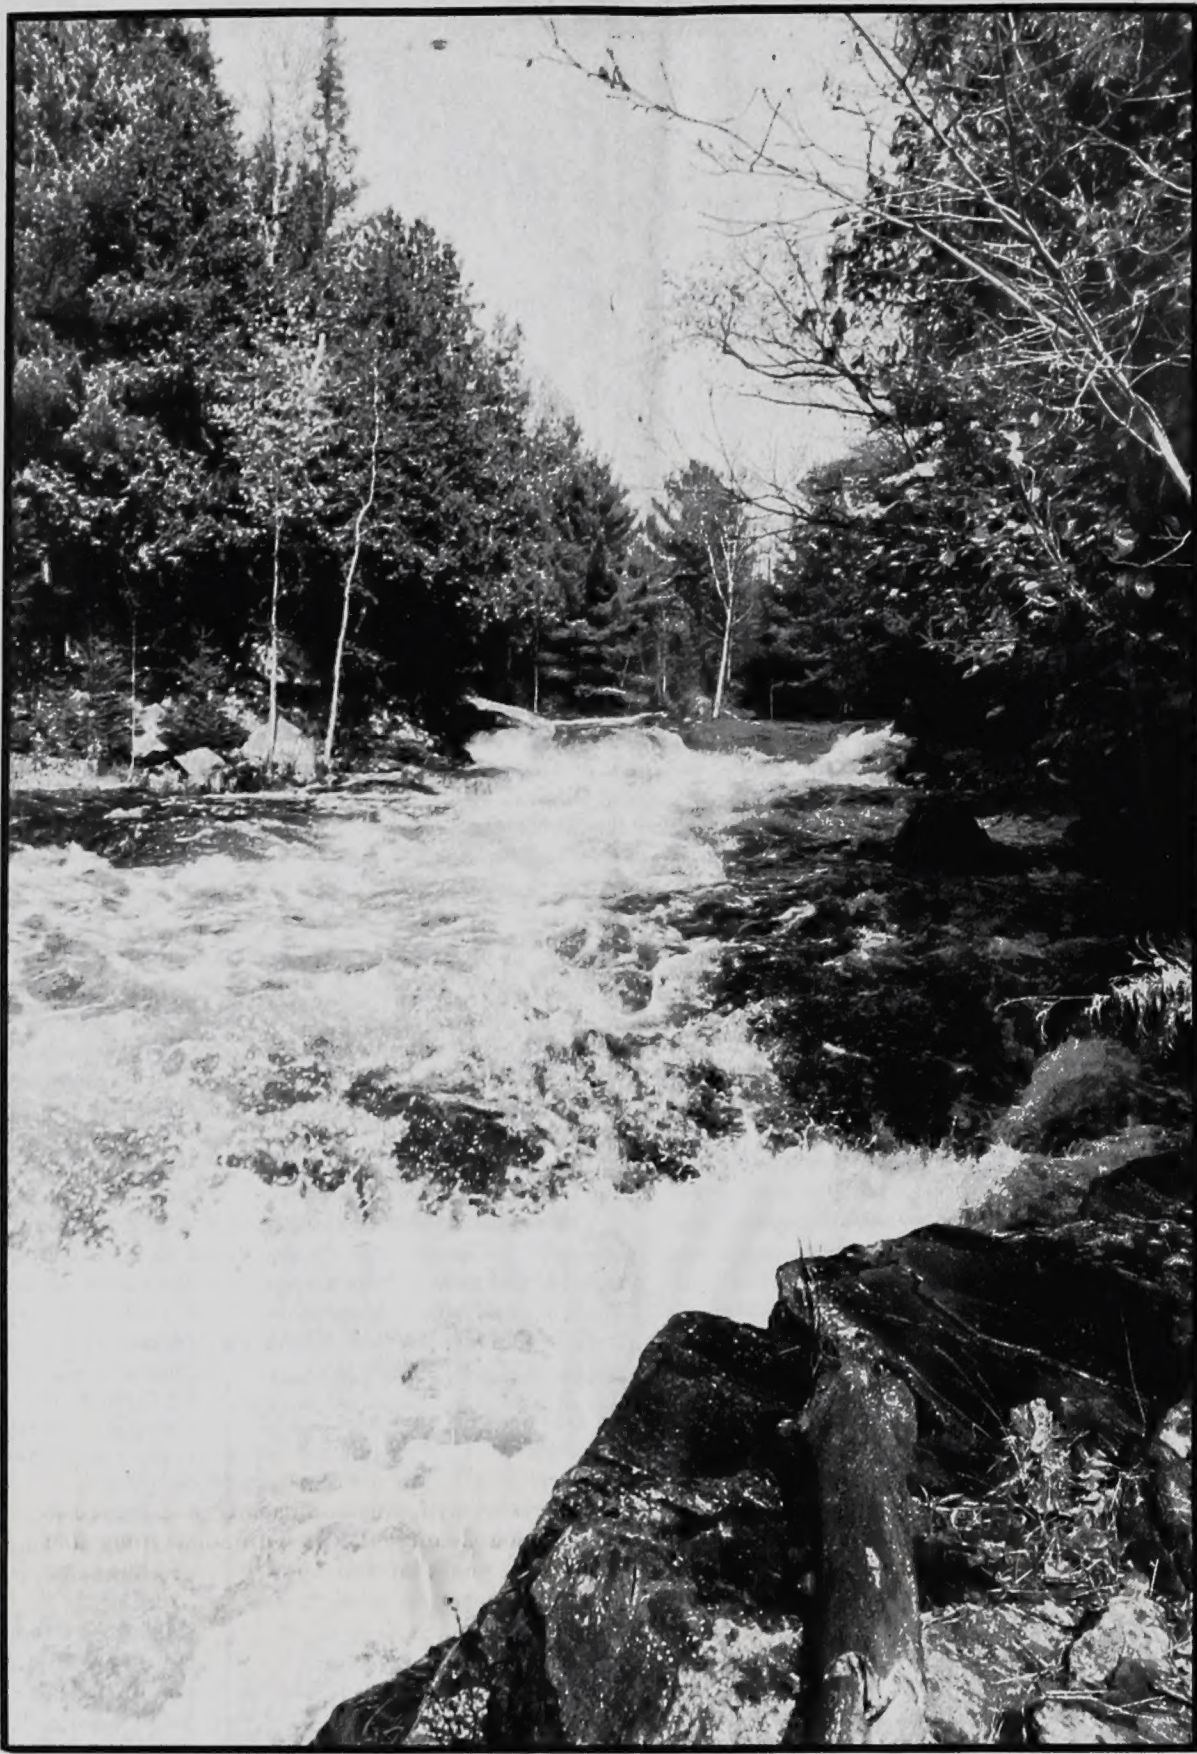

While this self-described 'national edition' of a weekly is certainly not in the mainstream of community newspaper publishing, there is one dimension it shares in common with many other community papers. The focus of its editorials is not on local issues but on provincial, federal and international affairs. It carries stories on Nicaragua and opinion pieces on a wide range of topics that lie well beyond the distances that an editor can see from the main street of small town Canada. As a result, it isn't a community newspaper at all, despite its claims to be one. It was touted as a vehicle through which some of the best writing in Canadian weeklies could reach a wider audience, but it has not lived up to that promise, perhaps because there is an irreconcilable difference between what a community newspaper strives to be and what people outside its coverage area would be interested in reading.

Here at the Echo, we are absolutely committed to the premise that our responsibility is to the community, and that the features, news and editorials we write should be about Haliburton County and the people and events that make up its day-to-day existence. To presume to write about provincial and national issues would be to shirk our most basic and important responsibility to you, our readers. The daily newspapers do an admirable job of covering matters of national and global concern that touch all of our lives in one way or another. But none of them cares in the slightest about Haliburton or Minden or Wilberforce, except when disaster or significant crime can offer a brief moment of shock to readers who know nothing of the true value and strength of small communities.

You won't read about Nicaragua in the Echo, not because we deny the importance of issues beyond main street but because we believe it is more courageous and far more valuable to write about local people and to express opinions about local issues. And if we sometimes tread on toes and provoke a little anger, it's all in a day's work, and for us it's nothing personal. Occasionally our words may sting but always our motivation is love for the community we serve.

No delays

The much-needed sewer line that will service resorts on the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog has been delayed until next spring because preliminary work, including the securing of the required easements is taking longer than was at first anticipated. It is to be hoped that the problem can be quickly resolved and that no one will stand in the way of a project that will benefit the whole community. The line is needed and the funding is in place. Let the work begin as soon as possible.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

To continue the saga of my struggle with Bell Canada to secure telephone service, I have received notification from two executives of that company that telephone service will be installed around the north end of Esson Lake in August 1987 - 14 years after it was promised.

I wish to thank all of those who helped by signing a petition and writing letters on behalf of the residents. In particular, I wish to thank Reeve Keith Tallman and the Monmouth council, Mrs. Edith Daniels, and Mr. and Mrs. E.K. Scott for their most valuable assistance.

If I can help anyone else who is experiencing the same difficulties with Bell Canada, I would be most happy to do so.

Yours sincerely,
Colleen M. Riley,

A matter of facts

To the Editor:

I was absolutely amazed at the big issue that was made in your paper about Hyland Crest Employees receiving a wage increase. For one thing, Mr. Editor, your facts are not straight. Having been on the negotiating committee for CUPE LO1225 I can tell you by referring to my notes that the final offer given to us at conclusion was as of May 1/85 - 20 cents on present rates and May 1/86 - 15 cents on increased rates. Thirty-five cents over two years is really nothing to write home about. When you refer to Hyland Crest employees wanting the same pay as employees in Toronto, such is not the case. We expected wage parity with Health Care facilities in our own region. By the way, are we not in Victoria-Haliburton riding? I hate to argue with council (I'm referring to the front page coverage) but Bracebridge and Huntsville are in Muskoka. Why should our wages be compared to theirs?

It is my understanding that the arbitrator arrived at his decision, by looking at wages at Haliburton, Minden and Peterborough, St. Joseph Hospital, Civic Hospital, Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay and nursing homes in the Lindsay, Peterborough area.

I think you, Mr. Editor, and the taxpayers in Haliburton County should start looking at how much money the politicians in the area make. How much do each one of the members of council make? How much money have they cost the taxpayers by not offering CUPE a reasonable increase and as a result have caused an arbitration. As far as not being able to resume collective bargaining, why not? CUPE has always wanted to negotiate in the past and will in the future.

The employees at Hyland Crest give the residents exceptional high quality care and in my estimation should be worth as much as health care workers in Haliburton, Minden, Lindsay and Peterborough. It is a pity, that there seems to be money for everything else in the county, but none for the care of our senior citizens, who are the backbone of our society, and who have paid taxes all their lives.

By the way, when the new chronic care wing is added to St. Josephs Hospital in Haliburton, will the employees there not be making wages comparable with St. Josephs Hospital in Peterborough?

I rest my case.

Sincerely,
Linda English

Coverage appreciated

To the Editor:

The cheque enclosed is sent to your care instead of to the Fire Relief Fund, because I want to congratulate the Echo staff, and especially Martha Perkins, for the excellent coverage of the Haliburton Fire. Her vivid descriptions were both graphic and sympathetic. Picture presentations also commendable. You have made dramatic changes in the Echo in recent years.

My memories of Haliburton go back to 1914, when we lived that winter in Mrs. Sipes' cottage, beside the Anglican Church, and I was lifted over the fence to go to Sunday School.

Hearty good wishes for your future progress in Haliburton.

Sincerely yours,
Margaret Gardiner,
Scarborough, Ontario.

Fair Play

by Creighton Feir

By the time you receive this paper chances are that everyone will have their minds on Thanksgiving. Yes, the Thanksgiving weekend is coming up and many visitors will be in the area to close up their cottages or to view what colour is left as far as the leaves are concerned. Each and every year following this, the final holiday weekend before Christmas, I find that it can be a very sad and depressing time as many of us have to say goodbye to so many old and new friends who generally come up in the early spring and stay until Thanksgiving. They then head back to Toronto or some other centre in Ontario for the winter months. I have the pleasure of being in this business which gives me the opportunity to meet and to know many people who have cottages here while others I know are visiting with relatives or staying at a cottage resort, hotel or motel. It's very easy to get to know some of these people on a personal basis and I am always fascinated by the interest that they show in local affairs and also the wonderful people who dream of the day and look forward to the time when they will be coming back into the area and becoming permanent residents. They are certainly welcome and I am convinced that its the new blood moving back into the area with some new and fresh ideas which when put into place will make this area even better than it now is.

The Minden and District Lions Club are to be congratulated on the fine job they did in making the preparations for the successful Wintario Draw which was held in Minden last Thursday. The entertainment was top notch, the arena was decorated beautifully and everything seemed to go off without a hitch.

Friends and customers turned out in good numbers on Saturday for the official opening and open house of Jim Johnston Contractor. His new building which includes a workshop, garage and office is located at the Industrial Park in Haliburton. Murray Fearrey, Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al, was on hand to cut the ribbon and officially open the new building. Jim Johnston, who owns and operates the business, welcomed many of his customers and friends to the new premises. Refreshments were served to all those who attended the opening. This is just one of the many new businesses which have opened or will be opened in the very near future. It's all a sign of progress for the village of Haliburton.

The Haliburton Minor Hockey Association held their final registration for players at the Haliburton Arena on Saturday September 27. We understand that OMHA tryouts are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 6, 7, 8 and 9. Regular practices for the House League and OMHA players will begin on Tuesday, October 14. Support your child and support minor hockey.

Lou Consky, owner of the Molou Theatre at Haliburton, has informed us that those attending the show on Sunday evenings are going to get a break. He tells us that on Sundays only all seats will be at the low price of $2.50.

From all reports, deer are going to be quite plentiful when the deer season opens in November. Several local citizens have told me that they have noticed deer running along the sides of the highways and on the roads in several sections of Haliburton County. Walt McKechnie of the Kosy Korner told me that just recently he was driving into work at Haliburton from his home at Eagle Lake and when he looked up at a rocky ledge on the side of the road there in full sight were two deer.

When driving downtown in Minden it certainly makes one feel good to see the vacant IGA store now hopping with activity. Vince Connaughan who owns and operates the Stedmans store on Minden's main street has rented the former IGA store and is using it for a toyland.

If you like Country and Western music you will certainly go for the local musical group known as "Just Plain Country". They have been very active of late playing at many of the dances and Fall Fairs in the area and were one of the featured groups at the Wintario night held in Minden last Thursday.

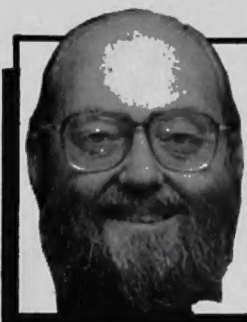

In the September 24 issue of the Haliburton County Echo, Martha Perkins, Staff Reporter did a story of Ritzpah Elstone who was celebrating her 100th birthday. Her sons and daughters names were mentioned with the exception of Harold who pre-deceased her. We apologize for this oversight.

Wally Crouter, well known radio personality and morning man on CFRB in Toronto along with his wife were recent visitors to the Highlands of Haliburton having stayed at the beautiful Pine-stone Inn and Country Club in Haliburton.

Last Thursday I noticed the following printed on a bumper sticker on a car parked in the municipal parking lot across from the Echo. "We are spending our children's inheritance."

POINTS OF VIEW

Land abused by careless people

The view
from here
Harvey Clarke

Late in August, the Echo ran a Letter to the Editor from Eric Lilius about the conditions he found around the spring above Maple Lake. He described the garbage strewn about the area, ranging from beer cans and fast food containers to garbage bags and construction leftovers.

Since he talked about his 'regular run' to the spring, I can only assume that he was there not too long before, and things weren't quite as bad. Because it's a public site, and some people still care, I expect things do get cleaned up from time to time.

It can be a little different with private land. The people who own some land near mine hadn't been around to check on it for so long, they decided to hire a surveyor to make sure all the property lines were clear, and that no one had taken over any of their property.

Originally, they used the land fairly regularly, but as time went on they came up less and less, and decided that they would keep it as a bit of an investment. After the surveyor's report, they made a visit to check things out and they got, quite a shock.

Part of their land is beside the bridge over the Burnt River outside of Donald, and over the years people apparently began parking there while they fished. Some of them even camped out, burning brush for campfires, and leaving broken bottles behind.

Other people apparently admired the small clumps of birch that grew on the property, and perhaps to save them from being broken down and burned, decided to transplant them to their own property -- in the city, or at the cottage, it would be hard to say.

Like so much of this area, there is just a thin layer of soil on top where the tree grew, and when the clumps were removed, it exposed some very nice sand. This was soon spread around to make parking easier, and people found it a handy source for a trunkful of sand for making cement, or filling a sandbox for the children.

In recent years much of the area has looked a bit like a war zone, as the holes in the sand have been dug deeper, and then people have decided they were a handy place to discard broken asphalt and other materials. It wasn't much good for sand anymore, because all the broken bottles from parties had made it pretty dangerous to use.

But that didn't stop the ATV freaks, who like to take runs on their noisy unlicensed (and presumably uninsured) machines early in the morning and late at night in the hopes that the OPP won't spot them. They will cheerfully ride around in circles in the mess, up and down, through the little trees and bushes, for literally hours at a time.

There are some magnificent big trees on the property, though most of their lower branches are broken and torn. Some people don't seem to know that fresh wood doesn't burn. Others were broken by a construction crew pumping water out of the river, and using the tree as a platform for their hoses.

It is now so level and easy to drive on that people have been able to camp there with those giant 'land yacht' motor homes when they bring their kids up to camp. And wouldn't you think that someone with that kind of money would have enough sense not to flush out their toilet tanks on land by a river?

It's hard to say if it is stupidity or a state of mind. Who would expect a nice respectable-looking family with a tent trailer to leave little piles of disposable diapers behind. And what kind of minds do the motorcycle group who camped there next have -- when their idea of clearing a site for themselves was to drop all this garbage over the edge into the river.

My neighbour was appalled at what had happened to his property. He is arranging to have the area fenced off and posted with 'no trespassing' signs, and I really can't blame him. Perhaps with time, and by planting a few small trees, he can salvage what should be a fine piece of riverside property. But it is a sad commentary on how people respect the property of others and the natural beauty that has been entrusted to us, isn't it....

A decision not to be regretted

Chamber of Commerce
by Shawn Hagerman

On September the 24, 1971, a bright and sunny day in the Fall, I loaded up all my worldly possessions in the back seat of a 1963 Volvo, said good-bye to my family and friends, and moved to Haliburton County. It was with some irony that exactly 15 years later at approximately the same time in the day on a bright and sunny afternoon in 1986, I found myself driving from Oshawa back up to Haliburton. Not once in those 15 years have I ever regretted the decision to make Haliburton my home. The first years were somewhat of a struggle, but the later years have always proved interesting. Especially with the natural beauty of our country and the warmth and fellowship of the people who live here.

If you have faith in the County, and its people, it has proven a great place to live, work and raise a family. It may not always be the easiest place to live. It could either be the warmest or the coldest, and this month it certainly felt the wettest, but I am always glad to call it home. I may not be lucky enough to say I was County born, but I am proud to say I chose to live here.

Buildings should reflect heritage

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Letters have been appearing in this paper of late showing concern for Haliburton and its future development. Like many others I'm also concerned.

Our store keepers are working at taking their part in the growth of our town. We all trust that as new buildings go up they will be pleasing to the eye and blend with the surroundings. The hills and lake make a beautiful backdrop for a truly exciting shopping area; the Horticultural Society has worked hard at planting flowers in tubs and has more plans in mind for next year. Attractive, well proportioned buildings will play their part in inviting people into town to enjoy their shopping. Perhaps, as we shall all be affected by these changes the plans for Hyland Street could be put on display.

However, let us not forget that we have a heritage to protect. Hyland Street has two or three historic buildings still standing and there are a number of old homes in the country side that have played a part in the development of Haliburton County.

There is an organization known as the Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC) that will help preserve old buildings. To get this help the municipal council needs to apply for its establishment in the area. Many small towns have applied and benefitted from the grants which become available.

Tourists come to Haliburton because they want a change from city surroundings. They are interested in our story and our country side. We can and must be progressive, but we must also preserve our heritage. This we owe to our children. They need to know how their grandparents and great-grandparents worked hard and long under difficult conditions to make Haliburton the strong caring community it is. They need to see the homes they built - evidence that their roots are here.

The past is needed to help the future.

C. Gwyneth Hughes,
Haliburton.

Creating atmosphere

To the Editor:

Bearing in mind that Haliburton is in a tourist area, all those responsible for rebuilding the central core of the village after the fire should pause and reflect before drawing up final plans.

Ask yourselves: "What do tourists look for when they visit the country? Do they really want another shopping centre, identical to the one they just left behind in the city? Perhaps they would prefer to browse through a unique little village, full of exciting stores, boutiques and restaurants, set romantically amidst hills and lakes, with the architecture and atmosphere of a lumber town of old?"

If still in doubt, take a trip to Alton, Unionville, Elora or Niagara-on-the-Lake, where atmosphere is the goose that lays the golden eggs.

L. Dobrzensky,
R.R.2, Haliburton.

Community forgotten

To the Editor:

Where is Highland Grove?

The Minden Times published a map of Haliburton County, but no mention of our village. The township held a Rabies Clinic but not in the only village in the township. The Minden Times did an article on old country stores. No mention of Highland Grove, established in 1898.

The people who live, work, pay taxes and vote here would like to be acknowledged. We have a Recreation Hall for euchre, bingo, a Fish and Game club and are in the process of forming a teen club. We also have a library, two churches, a real estate office, trailer park, auto body shop, a Chartered Accountant, a general store and a Post Office. But our township office is located in the township of Bicroft.

We have well-stocked lakes and streams and very colourful hills but were not included on any tours available.

We are part of the loop, but feel like the knot.

'Cycles' are only way to travel

Sunny Side Up
Martha Perkins

I was going to start this column by saying anyone who does not like motorcycling may now stop reading. But on second thought, I think the people who don't like motorcycles are the ones who should keep reading.

For some, mention the word motorcycle and the image of a Hells Angel reading an Easy Rider magazine before terrorizing little children or gray-haired ladies on his Harley Davidson will come to mind. Others have nasty words to utter when a motorcycle whizzes by them on the highway. Everytime a motorcycle accident is reported, people say "See how dangerous motorcycles are," ignoring the more numerous accounts of car accidents. Face it, fools can get a licence for anything and while some stereotypes are based on certain realities, it is not fair to lump everyone on a motorcycle in one evil category.

Last week I travelled 2,084 kilometres on a Suzuki GSX 1100E, learning more about the countryside to the east and south of us, and also how wonderful it is to travel on two wheels instead of four.

Motorcycling is an active way to travel. When weathermen talk about cold fronts, riding exposed to the weather conditions means that within a kilometre, you can feel the temperature drop a few degrees instantly. So this is what a cold front means.

Roads also take on a special meaning. You can feel each turn, each bump in the asphalt, and it isn't long that you find yourself with favourite roads. Just south of the border between Quebec and Vermont, there's a stretch of road that is made for motorcycling, taking you through picturesque farmland, with mountain ranges on both sides. You go from rolling hills dotted with farms and cows, to the wooded lanes joined by gently flowing rivers and streams. It was a perfect place to stop for a picnic, taking advantage of every ray of sunshine as it was granted to you.

Not only was the scenery tremendous, but the road was everything you'd want from a ribbon of pavement. It was smooth and well graded on a perfect 180 degree slant. The curves around every corner brought you new visual delights, leaving you full of anticipation of what was ahead.

Because there are no distractions, all of your senses are engrossed by what you see and feel around you -- the smells, the sights and the touch of the wind, sun and rain.

Old Quebec City is a magical place on its own, but you can also learn so much about the history of this province by going off the main routes and driving through the small villages every four or 14 kilometres apart.

You can see the village kilometres away, since the highest and grandest building was the Catholic church, proud overseer of all the land around it. Beside the huge stone structure (wood if the village was poorer) was the next largest building in the village -- the priest's manse. Each village would try to outdo each other in the size and grandeur of these buildings, focusing much of their money and time on these sources of pride in the village.

The farther south you went, the more English the villages became, probably settled by United Empire Loyalists over the decades. Crossing over to Vermont, the villages took on their own special charm, with little changes to the architecture to let you know you are in a different world.

Crossing into the United States at Beebe was hilarious, since the customs office was so small you could drive right past it without noticing. The officer would have made Ronald Reagan proud, talking about the evils of drugs and alcohol, and how they are taking the hard-won freedom away from everyone. We should value everything our countries provide for ourselves and not abuse either ourselves or our fellow countrymen, he theorized.

He was not to be outdone a few days later when a topsy-turvy ferry ride brought us to Wolfe Island where we had to re-enter Canada. It had been raining all day, and the tiny ferry bobbed across the channel trying its best to take its one motorcycle and four cars safely to dry land. The customs officer here hated his job. Asked if he lived on the island, he cursed saying the wrath of God couldn't make him stay there and how would you like being totally dependent on ferries. Never mind staying on the island, he said, go across to Kingston where there was much more happening. The poor man.

Anyway, back to the roads. Major roadways are good for picking up time, but as anyone who has travelled along the 401 will tell you, they are rather boring. Each evening a route would be mapped out so interstates and four-lane traffic could be avoided. Gray skies and light drizzle needn't dampen your spirits as long as you have plenty of things to look at to take your mind off the weather. That is, if you were properly dressed.

There's nothing like leather to provide the best protection from the wind and wet, and also from any possible spills you may have. Riding all day in black leather from head to toe, you become so accustomed to the sight that it means nothing to do your grocery shopping or stop off somewhere for a cup of hot chocolate dressed in black.

It was so funny watching people's reactions. It seems that once the helmets were off, and polite please and thank yous were said, people relaxed and no longer feared for their lives. Once they realized black leather did not mean bad things, they would come up and ask questions about the weather, the riding and where we were from. People would use the motorcycle as an excuse to start up a conversation and I hope in some way, any prejudice they had against motorcycles was slightly diminished after they got back into their cars and tour buses. On the ferry across Lake Champlain, one foursome even got up enough nerve to ask me to take their picture, not fearful that I would steal their camera or do something dastardly, and afterwards, we had a nice conversation about the weather and countryside.

And even though the weather conditions were

SPORTS

Redmen lose by one in Lindsay mud bowl

Haliburton high school's senior Redmen have had only three points scored on them in as many games, but in last Friday's cold, muddy conditions, one of those three points was enough to hand the Redmen their first loss of the season.

With two impressive wins under their belts, the senior Redmen had reason to be confident that they could at least hold their own against a bigger squad from LCVI, and in the end they came very close, losing 3-2 in what head coach Gary Brohman described as "a mud bowl" at the Lindsay high school field.

The conditions helped Lindsay take away the Redmen's potent wide option offence, and that was a telling factor in the outcome.

Lindsay received the kickoff to open the game, and the Redmen had them deep in their own zone until three Haliburton penalties got LCVI out of trouble.

The Redmen mishandled LCVI's punt at the end of the series and the home team took over once again, but Haliburton's defense was able to hold off any threat.

Andrew Burk and Jaro Cooper managed to move the ball on the ground for three Redmen first downs, but the momentum slid away as the wet field was churned into a sea of mud.

The first point appeared on the board in the second quarter, and it was the Redmen who racked it up. Scooter Burgess was wide on a 37 yard field goal attempt but LCVI was forced to give up a safety in their endzone.

Haliburton was missing the services of its regular kicker, Alex Little, who is out for the season with a separated shoulder suffered in practice last Tuesday, and his absence was a factor in the game.

At the end of the first half the score stood at 1-0 for the Redmen.

Early in the third quarter the Redmen had Lindsay confined deep in their own zone but spearing and piling on penalties against Haliburton helped move the ball out to midfield.

Later in the quarter Kevin Barnhart recovered an LCVI fumble but the Redmen offense once again stalled against the Lindsay defenders and a field goal was called. The kick was wide from 25 yards out, but it added another safety, giving the Redmen a 2-0 lead.

In the fourth quarter the Redmen came frustratingly close to putting the game away, but luck was just not with them. With second down and eight yards to go late in the quarter the Redmen made first down yardage but they were called for holding and were forced to take the down over. This time quarterback Tom McLeod threw a pass that was intercepted. LCVI began their series at the Haliburton 40 yard line and marched it down to the 15 before being forced to try a field goal, which the Redmen blocked.

The ball exchanged hands again and LCVI brought it back to the 15 yard line where, with the minute flag up, they put the ball between the uprights and took a 3-2 lead.

Haliburton chose to receive a kickoff and Mike MacNaull ran it to mid field before being stopped. A pass to Ian Cooper was good for a 15 yard gain. Another pass to Trevor Powers was incomplete and the Redmen faced a third down situation with time running out.

The call was for a punt by Ron Perrin and he connected solidly, driving the ball into the LCVI endzone, but the Redmen could not complete the safety. The Lindsay receiver was brought down on the one yard line and the game was over.

The loss put the Redmen in a three way tie for first place with LCVI and Fenelon, all with two and one records. I.E. Weldon trails with a record of three losses.

This Friday the Redmen will be back in Fenelon, and will have to win if they hope to gain sole possession of first place.

The Junior game was not nearly as close, and the size and experience of the LCVI juniors told the tale.

In the first quarter LCVI ran the ball successfully against the junior Redmen and chalked up two touchdowns, one of them converted for a 13-0 advantage. Late in the second quarter LCVI also kicked a field goal to increase their lead to 16-0.

In the second half Haliburton's concentration improved and they were able to move the ball more effectively, although Lindsay still held the advantage on the scoreboard.

Late in the third quarter Lindsay added another touchdown on a sweep and led 23-0.

In the fourth quarter Lindsay's coach made use of some of his second string players rather than try to run up the score, a move which Haliburton head coach John Fitzgerald appreciated.

Despite the lopsided score the junior squad is improving with every outing. This week, coach Fitzgerald says, they'll continue to work on the basics of tackling and play execution in hopes of giving Fenelon a challenge when the teams meet this Friday for game four of the six game season.

Winter is a couple of months away but the minor hockey season is already underway in Haliburton. This week the organization held tryouts for its OMHA teams, and the season schedules were posted. Here a group of PeeWee hopefuls is put through their paces on Monday night.

Muskoka gets by Dixie Lee

By Jim Milne

Dixie Lee lost their return game against the Muskoka Oldtimers 3-1 at Baysville last Sunday.

Muskoka scored first from a direct kick which was floated over the Dixie Lee defensive wall and then headed into the far corner of the net. There was no further scoring in the first half although the Haliburton team had a number of good chances.

Dixie Lee continued to press in the second half and hit the goal posts twice before Muskoka scored a disputed goal that may have gone through a hole in the net. Muskoka added to their lead with a well-placed kick from the edge of the box directly in front of the net that curved away from the goalie. With 20 minutes left in the game Ivor Thompson scored a beautiful goal from beyond the 18 yard box. He carried the ball across the goal to his right, but shot it high and hard back across to the far left corner to catch

New computer gives students an edge

By MARTHA PERKINS

Icon's use beneficial in job searching

Highschool students graduating into the "real world" of job searches, endless bills to pay and newfound responsibilities, will find a very competitive market waiting for them. No longer is a university degree a guarantee for a job and if you want to be able to do something that both pleases you and provides the funds to pay for all those new responsibilities, you must make sure you have plenty of skills and resources to draw upon.

To help its students become better prepared for the working world that looms ahead of them, the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, with the support and approval of the Board of Education, has purchased a new $100,000 Icon computer system. With the promise that it will be a teaching tool for a wide range of subjects and grades, teachers at the school are optimistic about its potential use and advantages for the students.

"We're really trying to bring instruction to the level where business is today," says the head of the business department, Doug Mitchell. "What we're doing is providing the background so the students can compete in the job market."

Because he has not yet received the instruction manual for the hundreds of different programs available, the Burroughs Icon system is now being used primarily for the Grade 11 and 12 Business Procedures and Accounting students.

In his accounting classroom next door to the computer room, he will give instructions and teach the students how to do the manual paperwork before taking them next door. This way, a student will already know the basic terms and functions of accounting, and then learn how it can all be made easier through the use of the computer. The student still has to do all the work, but the computer makes sure that time is spent more efficiently, taking away some of the more tedious aspects of filing and sorting through reams of information.

"We're trying to show them how to do it manually and then see the advantages of using a machine," Mitchell says. "You can retrieve and manipulate information" much faster with the Icon, with stored records brought up on the screen in just a matter of seconds.

The Icon is called "user friendly," which means that once you learn codewords to hook into the system and make use of its programs, it is fairly simple to use, not only for the computer students. Many students are apprehensive about using the computers at first, but once they find their way through the maze of jargon, they soon feel comfortable and ready to explore everything the computer has to offer.

Fourteen terminals, each with its own keyboard and screen, are hooked up to one main

'We're providing the background so the students can compete in the job market,' says business head Doug Mitchell, here with teacher Wendy Gough storage computer. The two other terminals are used by the teachers, one in the computer room so it is easy to check on the students' progress as they are working, and the other set in a little room where teachers can come in their spare time to set up the class program and do some practising on it themselves so they will feel more comfortable instructing the students.

For the accounting and business students, it is good there is one screen per student, but Mitchell says the company recommends that two students work away together at one screen for such subjects as history and science. This way, the two students can discuss problems and issues between them. But the school is one year ahead of its time, he says, and it will take time before the full potential of the system is realized.

Business procedures teacher Wendy Gough will be glad of the extra time to become more familiar with the computer and its language. Along with Mitchell and shorthand teacher Laura Aymong, she spent three days in Toronto this summer learning how to use the computer as well as spending one professional development day with a Burroughs company technician who came to the school to help them iron out any bugs.

The system can be quite frustrating, she admits, especially since it is not primarily a word processor and is more limited in this option. The word processing function is not as good as other computers designed for the one use, and commands are not as simple. But the fact that the Icon can do so much more than a word processor more than makes up for any problems with its word manipulating capabilities.

Again pointing to the fact the school is ahead of its time, Mitchell says the word processing software for the Icon came out on a Friday afternoon and the school had it by Monday.

Gough says learning how to use computers is important for her students since it will make their jobs so much easier. A legal secretary can draw up a will format, lock it into the computer's memory, and when the need arises, just fit in the various names and particulars without having to type up the whole letter again. If a letter is to be mailed to 50 people, the computer can take a basic text and then change the names and addresses automatically, making each one appear like an individually typed letter while in fact, it was only done once.

At any time, she can go into a students' file, calling up the work on her screen so she can mark it and check on the progress. During the classroom time, she can call up what has been done on a students screen to make sure what they are doing really is their assignments. Students are warned to be careful and are told

Highlands give writer freedom to create

By LEN PIZZEY
Editor

There is a dichotomy to life in the Haliburton Highlands that is often sensed but seldom spoken. The landscape is serene, the spaces wide, and the pace unhurried. The rhythms of life in this quiet corner of the Canadian Shield afford the artist, the writer, the craftsman an opportunity to look inward and explore new territories of the imagination. And yet the cultural isolation of the Highlands can make the artist's solitary pursuit an even greater burden. There are few like-minded people with whom to share one's thoughts and ambitions and there are no symphonies, theatres or universities to revitalize a mind that is tiring of its own thoughts.

Stephen Patrick knows this dichotomy well. A former television executive producer with a 20 year career and a long list of accomplishments behind him, he has lived the pace and achieved the material successes that life in the city can bring. Now, at age 40, he has come back to the place where he feels most comfortable, to a home on the Burnt River barely a mile from his family's Koshlong Lake cottage where he spent three months a year throughout his childhood. After more than a decade of organizing creative people and managing the production of documentaries, drama and public affairs shows for CBC and TV Ontario, he has turned his back on the comfort and security of a corporate career to pursue new projects and forge a different kind of life. For two or three hours a day, every day, his fingers dance over the keyboard of a Commodore computer, tapping out words that flow in green flickers across the screen. His topic is a huge one - the psychic effects of the media on ourselves, our politics and our communities. Television has changed us and through us, the world, yet the process and its consequences are not easily understood. He has begun it as a novel, but he isn't at all sure what form the project finally will take. It may be a kind of journal, a work of fiction, or a television script. For the moment, it is enough to be in Haliburton, reading, writing, and watching the changing patterns of the river and the hills beyond.

"For years and years one of my dreams was to live here," says Patrick, sipping coffee, surrounded by the warmth of wood heat in his house near Donald.

Although Toronto is the place where a career in television can be most profitably pursued, it has lost whatever appeal it once had for Patrick. The city, he says, "is the apogee of self satisfaction for those who have money. I found it deeply depressing."

For Patrick, as for anyone who gives up one kind of life and moves to the Highlands in search of another, there is a price to be paid, not only in dollars but in the distancing from one's colleagues and friends.

"You feel, sometimes, a loss," he says, when you no longer are surrounded by people who are actively working in your own field.

The demands of daily life also can interfere with the creative process, and since it is necessary to have some income, even if expenses are pared to a minimum, writers and artists who abandon the city for quieter places often have to take whatever jobs they can find for a least part of the year. "You really do live on an edge" he says.

Patrick doesn't view these economic pressures as entirely negative, however. It is important, he says, that writers "know and are in contact with people from every part of society." He feels no need to live like a hermit, writing in a figurative 'garret' away from human affairs, and so he took a job this summer at Chateau Woodland, where he worked as recreation director and met literally hundreds of people.

There are many precedents for this sort of economic and psychological balancing act. T.S. Eliot, one of the most influential poets of this century and winner of the Nobel prize for Literature, spent his days as a bank clerk. Anthony Trollope, a prolific novelist, was a postman. William Faulkner, another Nobel winner, wrote 'As I Lay Dying' in six weeks while working as a coal stoker at an electrical plant, using an upturned wheelbarrow for a desk.

As well as working at the lodge in summer Patrick expects to explore new psychic and creative ground by teaching creative writing courses through Sir Sandford Fleming College's local campus, and helping youngsters at Archie Stouffer public school with creative writing assignments.

Although he has no formal training as a teacher, Patrick believes his years as an executive producer will be an asset in the classroom. He says he expects to approach the people who have signed up for the 10 week writing course at Sir Sandford "in much the same way as I would treat colleagues who have assembled to do a show." As well as helping the students with their own writing projects, he will spend some of his time in the class room reading and discussing the works of other writers, particularly Virginia Wolfe - whom he describes as a "writer's writer" - Eudora Welty, Joyce Carol Oates and Alice Munroe. He hopes that at the end of the course each student will have discovered more about their own ambitions as a writer and produced something in finished form which may eventually reach a wider audience, perhaps, as a start, through The Echo.

There is a sense, says Patrick, in which writing is "a journey back to innocence." A writer of fiction must learn to recapture the imaginative powers that come so easily to children, but which are so often stultified by experience and the pressures of adulthood.

"There are no rules for a writer's territory," Patrick says. The realm of the imagination is everywhere, "and all of it is food to you."

It is often said that writers must seek experience, by which is meant a knowledge of the wider world, of exotic locations and high adventure. Those who don't write but think they could if only they had the money to travel or the luxury of time, misapprehend the simple fact that is in the landscape of the imagination that writers discover their most fertile ground. Material for a memorable novel is as likely to be mined in Haliburton as in Toronto, London or New York.

After 20 years in television, Stephen Patrick is finding new challenges and pursuing new writing projects

To illustrate the point, Patrick tells an anecdote about Eudora Welty, an elderly spinster who has lived her life simply and quietly in a small, southern U.S. town, and who also happens to be one of the most acclaimed short story writers in the English language. One day Welty read a news report that black civil rights activist Medgar Evers had been assassinated by a white youth in her town. She wrote a short story in which she imagined the circumstances that would have led a white youth to kill a black man campaigning for equal rights and social justice. Although the world of her town was circum-scribed, she knew its every psychological nook and cranny - the poverty, the ignorance, the frustration, the bigotry. She sent her story to the New Yorker magazine, whose editors immediately recognized that it was a minor masterpiece. Yet when the story was checked by a lawyer for the magazine - a routine procedure - he immediately advised the editors not to publish it. For although the story was entirely a product of Welty's imagination, it almost precisely mirrored the biographical facts about the accused murderer's background, and his motive for the crime.

Bernsteins' matriarch devoted to store

By MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

It is hard to imagine two things: One is a downtown Haliburton without Bernsteins store. The second is what it must have been like for 18-year-old Bella Bernstein to arrive in this small village, a new mother and bride who was accustomed to some of the more modern conveniences -- such as indoor plumbing and electricity.

Sixty-six years ago, Bella and her husband Saul decided to settle their roots in Haliburton, a sleepy village half the size it is today and which depended largely on the surrounding forests to provide an income for its inhabitants. Saul had been buying furs from the local traders, learning more and more about what the county had to offer and where it would fit into the plans of his new and growing family. Deciding this was where they could grow and prosper, the two left friends and family behind in Toronto to tackle this new territory.

There were many advantages to city life in those days, where progress was felt decades earlier than it was in the outlying areas. But it was not the place to start a life and business without lots of competition from neighbouring stores and establishments.

The trip north took a whole day, the bad roads difficult to traverse no matter what time of year. Cars were fine in the summer, but when you consider how difficult it would be to get through

'I don't know
what I'd do if I didn't have the store,'
says Bella Bernstein

unplowed snow fields, winter driving was a considerable adventure. Their first car was a Ford, followed by a Buick and even though the roads were bad, "everybody seemed to go around regardless," Mrs. Bernstein remembers.

Her arrival in Haliburton came a few months after her husband's. With a newborn baby, Molly, in tow, the young Bella had decided to stay at her parents' home for a few months before "I bundled her up and we came home."

"I knew I had to make the best of it so I didn't let it get me down," she says of her first reaction to country life. "I just made up my mind that I had to stick by my husband. The people were very nice, that's the main consolation."

The Bernsteins built the store, putting their tiny little house behind it (and of course the tiny little outhouse behind that.) There was no running water or electricity, but Mrs. Bernstein made the best of it, adapting herself readily to her new life.

At first the store sold both dry goods and groceries, but in later years, when there were too many stores selling groceries, they cut back to just the dry goods.

A woman could come in, buy a complete outfit with hat, shoes, gloves, stockings, dress, and then go over to another counter and choose the food she would need for that week's meals. A lumber jack, with his total savings of seven or eight dollars, could come in and buy everything he needed.

"You wouldn't believe how much they could bring home," Mrs. Bernstein says of the purchases to be made with what now would seem like meagre savings. Even in the Depression people were still able to come into the store to pick up a few items. Ration cards had to be filled out and sometimes families would trade with each other so they could get two rations of butter but no flour or vice versa.

"Some people would only make a dollar a day on the roads, but it would go a lot further," she recalls. "Haliburton was a very lucky spot. No one was wanting and everyone seemed to have work."

Besides the quantity of money people made in those days, Mrs. Bernstein believes people treated it much differently, never complaining if they didn't have any and always working hard to ensure they did. They didn't pine away wishing they could have things they others had, but "we appreciated it when we got something we wanted," such as running water, electricity and good roads.

(One funny story she has to tell is how her husband, who was a councillor at the time, convinced his fellow council members that they should pass a by-law forbidding cows to graze on main street because they caused traffic jams during the summer season. The year was 1937.)

"In those days people were satisfied with what they had," she says. "Now the more people make, the more they want." Everyone had basically the same as everyone else, and were quite content with their lot. However, she does say "of course there are more opportunities now to spend your money."

Spending money at Bernsteins was never a problem since they carry such a wide variety of items. For Mrs. Bernstein, the part she loves the most is helping people find what they want and have them go out the door satisfied with their purchase.

"I love to be in the store talking to people and seeing them get what they want and I hope my clerks are all nice to them. I always try to be friendly," says Mrs. Bernstein, who is 84 years old and still helps out in the store whenever she can. If she gets tired, she can rest in her rooms at the back of the store but she finds she is not able to stay long without getting up and checking on how things are going out front. Every time the door opens, a buzzer goes off in her kitchen, a noise she is so accustomed to she doesn't mind when it goes off constantly.

When she was younger, she would juggle her store duties with her duties at home, doing all her own cooking and baking as she provided for her husband and their children Molly, Allan, Dorothy and Betty. Local girls would be hired to help out, and while there were a few dandies, Mrs. Bernstein says, she was always happy to be able to find such good and reliable staff.

The coldest winter months were spent in Toronto with her parents, whom she greatly missed when she had to move to Haliburton. Her two sisters were there too, and it was a great time for her to keep in touch with all that was going on with the Toronto half of her relatives. Her family loved Haliburton, and would use the sunnier months as a time to visit their daughter and sister as they enjoyed the lakes and activities.

At first there were not many places for those tourists who were brave enough to face the roads to stay, but once guest houses and hotels opened up, tourism really began to blossom.

Camp kids would be paid at the end of every summer, and before they went back home to school, they would come into the store to pick up all those items they had asked to be put away during the summer. Now, some of those camp kids have brought their own children into the store to introduce them to Mrs. Bernstein and keep up the summer tradition. This is something Mrs. Bernstein looks forward to each year, watching the time melt away through the faces of the different generations.

In all her years of working at the store and living in Haliburton, Mrs. Bernstein says she's never had two cross words with anyone, and if she doesn't get along with someone, she will not say anything and just try to avoid that person in the future rather than get into arguments, something she left up to her politically-minded husband.

"I've never had any problems with anyone," she says. "I think it's the people -- they're all very nice. They were always willing to help you and were always friendly."

There are many people who come into Bernsteins just to have a chat as they pick up a few items, continuing stories and tales of children and then grandchildren as the decades pass. Some things will never end, and the family tradition of friendly and knowledgeable service is being carried on by Mrs. Bernstein's daughter Betty Grant and her grandson Randy, who at 20 has taken an active interest in the store.

"I don't know what I'd do if I didn't have the store," Mrs. Bernstein says of why she still persists in playing such an active role. "As long as I'm doing and accomplishing something I'm happy." Evenings she spends going for a walk, watching television or settling down with a good book. If ever she needs anything, her family is right by her side to do whatever they can.

"Life's got to go on," she says of the changes she's seen. "You've got a family to look forward to," is what she thinks is the most important.

Lately her arthritis has really started to bother her and she doesn't think she'll make her yearly pilgrimage down to California to visit her son and sisters. She's quite content to spend her time sitting in her favourite chair in the store, making sure that everyone who comes into the store leaves satisfied, even though she may no longer be the one pulling down boxes or standing on chairs. The store has been her life for so many years, the reason why she moved to Haliburton in the first place, and she is just as much a part of it as the store is a part of Haliburton.

Passenger's life easy

not always the best, the leathers did a tremendous job in protecting us from anything Mother Nature decided to mete out. Only on Sunday, when the temperatures seemed to drop drastically, did I begin to wish I had on an extra layer.

For my part, being a passenger is so easy -- you just sit there, relax and enjoy the scenery. As long as you can stop and take a walk or have a picnic in a field, there needs to be no physical discomfort.

But what I told everyone who expressed concern over travelling by motorcycle, especially so late in the season, is if you are really going to enjoy the trip you must have total faith and confidence in your rider.

It's true, many dangerous things can happen on a motorcycle - a loose stone, a slippery curve, a mad dash across the road by some animal, or the car driver who is blind to everything not encased in solid steel.

The dependable and trustworthy rider is one who is constantly aware of what can go wrong and is ready to react quickly and firmly. And while going fast is fun, the best rider is one who knows how to drive in the conditions given, and who never feels the need to show off to other riders on any type of vehicle.

After having experienced my first long-distance motorcycle trip, through rain, sun, cold or even fog (and almost snow), I can now say I am a true convert. Motorcycling may not be appealing to everyone, but for me, it certainly is the most enjoyable way to travel.

Teachers must also become familiar with Icon

that whatever is on their screen can be seen on her screen as well.

Some of her students have reacted well to the new Icon because they are used to computers, Gough says. Many homes now have their own personal computers and again, once the different code words are learned, it is easy to adapt knowledge of one system to another.

A lot of the problems will be with teachers who aren't familiar with computers, says Mitchell. The number of lessons which can be taught using the screen is endless, but the teachers must know what is available and how to find it.

One of the programs already on the computer is called Speakface, designed for kindergarten students.

"Point to my purple eyebrow," the computer says. (Yes it can talk, but in a funny, computerized way.) Using the cursor ball, which the student moves around to point to the purple eyebrow or the yellow eyebrow, the student enters his or her choice. "Right on" the computer says when the right choice is made or "Wrong colour, try it again" if the student doesn't get it the first time.

One of the wonderful things about computers, Mitchell says, is that they never lose patience. No matter how many times a student may choose the wrong colour or part of the face, the computer will never lose its cool, content to teach the same things over and over again.

But it will never be able to watch over students or provide them with the impetus to try new and innovative things. A computer will never be spontaneous. Its replies were logged into its memory long before any student sat down at the keyboard.

The Icon system is only the latest addition to the school's computer systems. The Commodore company came up with a deal a few years ago when you could buy three of its Pet personal computers for the price of two, and the school took advantage of the offer. There are also three word processing computers available to the students.

Bringing computers into the schools has been a goal of both the Ministry of Education and the local board, Mitchell says, but it was only until the past year that a suitable computer, the Icon, was developed to do everything the ministry wanted it to. The ministry had wanted a standard computer for use in all schools, outlining what they were looking for but not providing any financial assistance. This meant it did not receive the tenders it was looking for and the program was put on hold.

The tide turned when the Burroughs company took over, putting their marketing and computer abilities behind developing the new Icon. The ministry did its part to put up some of the money based on the grant structure, and at HHSS, this means the province will pay for 60 percent of the $101,000 bill while the board picks up the remaining 40 percent.

The figure may sound high, but Mitchell says the investment is well worth it, both in terms of the quality of the system and the opportunities it will provide the students of Haliburton County when they try to find employment.

Highschool players are borrowed for Dixie Lee soccer team

the goalie going the wrong way.

Perhaps Dixie Lee can claim victory in this exhibition series since they outscored Muskoka seven goals to four in the two games. The score of the first game was 6-1 for Dixie Lee, and not 5-1 as previously reported. Both teams, however, enjoyed a victory and some of the Dixie Lee players will join the Muskoka team to play in a tournament in Sudbury next Saturday and Sunday. Furthermore, in this game as in the last, Dixie Lee borrowed five high school senior players. The boys didn't look out of place, and were treated in every way as equals by the older players. Darryl Goodall played goal and the remaining four played as a complete forward line, John Vanderhorst, Paul Kuno, Kevin Barry and Eoin Ross. In the later stages of the game Al Jopling played well from his fullback position as the Dixie Lee midfielders and forwards ranged far down the field looking for more goals to bring the score closer.

The team plans a series of games near the end of October with the West Rouge Blues in Scarborough. Players from the summer should enquire about playing if school responsibilities or work permit. In addition, there may be one other exhibition game here in Haliburton against the High School Seniors.

OMHA tryouts begin

In a week when the Highlands felt the first sting of winter - a few flurries briefly accompanied Monday's bitter winds - minor hockey also got underway at the Dysart arena. Tryouts for OMHA teams from Atom through Midget began this week. Houseleague and OMHA practice times and game schedules also will be posted at the arena.

As has been the practice in recent years, juvenile age players from Haliburton can try for a place on the Minden Monarchs juvenile squad. There also is a possibility that a high school hockey club will be established this year, although the Board of Education will have to approve of the concept before it can proceed.

Winter starts this weekend.

The Phazer is back.

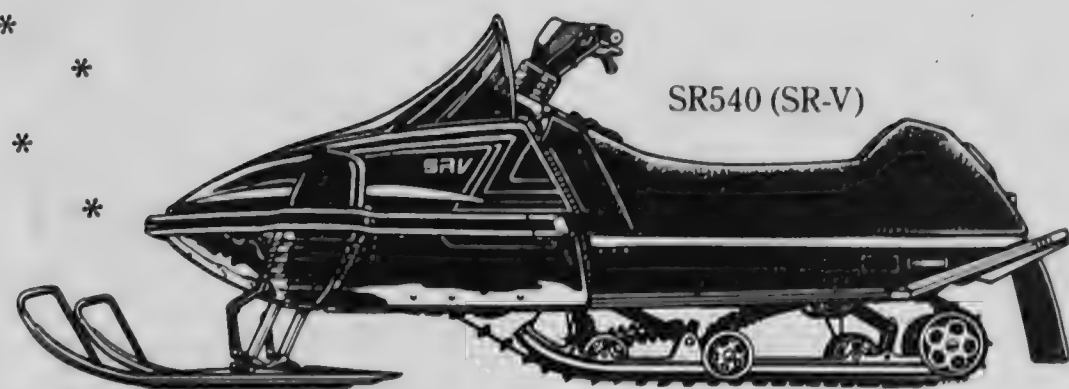

PZ480 Phazer.

But it's still out front.

Its space age look and radical cowling-on-the-handlebar design started a snowmobile revolution and it's still years ahead of its time. It's the often-copied, never-duplicated PZ480 Phazer.

The competition can't catch it. But you can right now in our showroom. YAMAHA We make the difference.

Writers' world of imagination is 'tough'

To live in the world of the imagination, as writers and other artists must, is to live in "a very tough, tough world" says Patrick. Writing is essentially a solitary pursuit, and loneliness necessary to practice the craft is not an easy condition with which to live. And yet Patrick says he finds it "enormously comforting" to know that there are other people in Haliburton "who are devoting a part of their lives to gaining access to their own imaginations."

At an age when most men are settling comfortably into their careers Patrick has taken a big risk in cutting his ties with the world of television production to pursue his interest in creative writing. "The risks are enormously high" he says. But he believes they are worth taking at this stage in his life.

"At worst I will know that I have given it every single shot that I have" and if the attempt fails, he will know that his greatest talent lies in organizing others to which there is no dishonour."

At best, he says, he will have found out that he can reach into his own imagination and find the material with which to make a living at writing words.

"Absolute failure would be not to have tried to do it." That kind of failure, he says, "would be very dangerous to the soul."

Hunters warned not to eat moose liver, kidney

Ontario's Ministry of Natural Resources is again warning hunters not to eat the kidney and liver from moose and deer after higher-than-normal levels of cadmium were discovered during testing by researchers.

Cadmium is a heavy metal which may be toxic at higher levels of exposure. It occurs naturally at low levels in the ecosystem but may reach higher levels of concentration in some areas. Experiments have shown that high concentrations of cadmium can cause kidney or liver damage in mammals. Cadmium concentrates in some longer living species such as moose and white-tailed deer.

The World Health Organization (WHO) has set a limit of 0.5 mg per week for human consumption of cadmium. To ensure that the public does not exceed that limit, the ministry is recommending that the kidneys and liver of moose and deer not be consumed.

Sources of environmental cadmium in Ontario have not been defined to date. Further sampling for regional differences in Ontario may help to define sources.

TENDER FOR SNOW REMOVAL

Tenders will be accepted by Haliburton Hospital for Snow Removal from entrance and parking areas at the hospital. Tender specifications are available from Mrs. Marlene Bennett, Nurse Administrator, Haliburton Hospital.

Tenders addressed to Mrs. Bennett by October 20, 1986. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Christmas shopping planned for Saturday

Kinmount Korner
by Millie Moss

A belated but none-the-less a very happy 90th birthday to Mina Hughes of Lindsay, on October 1 from her son Charlie Henderson and all the rest of us here in Kinmount.

Results of St. James euchre on Tuesday, September 30 were: ladies high, Ruby Schell, ladies low, Violet Schroeter, mens high, Nora Swinson, mens low, Lyle Anderson and most lone hands was held by Lloyd Crego.

Our very sincere sympathy goes out at this time to all the families and friends of loved ones who died within the last week. Roddy Cameron of Coboconk died on Wednesday, Everett Fountain of Hilton Point Road, Norland, died very suddenly on Thursday Warren Mann, of Toronto, also died and to the Stokes family our sympathy in the tragic death of a dear niece, murdered last Friday morning while at her work.

The U.C.W. will be holding their annual bake sale/bazaar at Kinmount Railroad Station on Saturday, October 11 beginning at 10 a.m. and going on through until everything is sold. There will be coffee and muffins, lots of cone wreaths with some Christmas decorations and hand knit goods just in time for your Xmas shopping. Come out and bring a friend.

Thanks to everyone who responded to my query re an old fashioned mat hook last week. One lady, Elda McGregor phoned me from Wilberforce, another lady told me how her father used to make them for her mother from the old type forks with the bone handles and yet another lady said she must hunt up her mother's old hook. Who knows - maybe we'll get the old craft started up once again.

Jean Merritt was a very welcome visitor to the Norland home of Mary and John Pyke last week.

There are lots of good books available at the library in Kinmount and everyone is invited to come out and use this facility. A very friendly and capable staff is there to help you and also, on Saturday October 14, there will be free crochet classes by Elaine Cooper beginning at 7.30 p.m., to be held at the Library. Everyone is most cordially invited to attend.

Saturday October 18 the Norland Public School will be holding a Walk-a-thon. More details on that later.

Congratulations to Wilma Lee of Coboconk who won the $190 jackpot at the Coboconk Legion bingo, Thursday October 2.

The Student Council for this year at Norland Public School are: president, David Lee, vice-president, Toni Greer, secretary, Dawn Gostlin.

Brenda Johnston is a welcome addition to Norland Public School. In her role as Health Nurse she will visit the school regularly each Friday morning. If you have any information or questions for Mrs. Johnston, please contact the school.

Vials of Life are available at the Home Support Office in Haliburton. Vials of Life provide a record of allergies, drugs and other medical information necessary to ambulance drivers, doctors and even your neighbours. You should keep one in your refrigerator and one in your glove compartment in the car.

Also, cold air masks are available at the Haliburton Home Support office. With cold weather not too far away anyone with heart or lung problems who finds it difficult to breathe out of doors in the cold weather should try one out.

Did you know that Haliburton County has the largest percentage of seniors - 18 percent - in all of Ontario?

Congratulations to another bingo jackpot winner: Lloyd Crego of Kinmount who won $200 on the final number at Kinmount Le-Gingersnap - or is it Gingerpop? - was waiting to be found on a shelf at the Dysart library last Wednesday, and it wasn't long before the youngsters of Victoria Street School's Grade 1 class, who had been looking for the missing cookies for almost two weeks, turned up to rescue them. It was all part of making learning interesting for the youngsters, who appeared to enjoy the adventures of the missing cookies immensely.

New church is beneficiary

Coboconk news
by Sheila Lake

It is with heavy hearts that we shall no longer see a very familiar figure on the way to the Post Office, the grocery store, the funeral home (to check that all was OK) or to visit one of his many friends. Uncle Roddy Cameron died very suddenly on September 30, one day short of his 89th birthday. He had gone into hospital on September 27 and was found to have pneumonia.

Rod Cameron worked at Wilberforce for many years and dearly loved the folk in that area, his second home community. A good friend, Wayne Rutter has struggled to establish a church there, and that church, the Wilberforce Full Gospel Church, will have its official opening on Saturday October 11, in the afternoon. If you wish to make a remembrance donation to this church, the family would be happy, as this is their request.

Sad too, is the sudden death of Everett Fountain at his farm on Hilton Point Road, on Wednesday. He died as he and his wife were repairing some fence Bridge winners last Tuesday evening at the Tory Hill Recreation Centre were Alex McLeod of Haliburton and Vic Mathews of Wilberforce. Five tables were played.

The Haliburton County Home Support Services invites everyone to attend the October 17 meeting at the PineStone Inn and Country Club. Dinner will be served at 12 noon with the meeting following at 1.15 p.m. Representative providers of the different services will speak. They will include: Donna Bailey, co-ordinator; Betty Mills, nurse co-ordinator for Home Care; Ann McNaul, senior nurse for V.O.N.; Ruby Way, Assistant Homemaker Services; Marion Tallman, public health nurse and a representative from Psychogeriatric Services. Each will give a brief description of their programs, services (including costs) and the criteria for receiving assistance. They will answer any questions you may wish to ask.

Dinner reservations must reach the office at 457-2941 by October 10. Do come and learn of the services available to seniors and enjoy the dinner and fellowship. Several of our residents were shocked and saddened upon hearing that Dick Haywood had been killed in a car accident near Hall's Lake last week. Dick was born and attended school in Gooderham over 60 years ago. He operated a gas station and restaurant at Sunderland until his recent retirement when he moved to Hall's Lake. Recently he has visited Gooderham several times to renew old acquaintances.

I am sorry to report that Mossom Graham is a patient in the Toronto Western Hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Between road work and the building of our new Civic Complex, our main street has seen quite an upheaval lately. A huge ditch with a complex drainage system with "mountains" of fill in readiness, leaving only a one-way passage to the post office, was seen one day. On the next day everything was in place and back to normal.

On the journey to the post office sidewalk superintendents make their comments as they inspect the new construction. With all the rains, someone queried if a swimming pool were being built. The pumps were kept busy draining the excavation. However, the concrete block work is now completed and the viewers await the next stage. Our village has been a busy and interesting spot lately.

Ivan and Ileen Hunter have returned from their western trip. On September 24, Ivan was honoured with the Award of Merit Medal by the Canadian Council of the Blind at the Bessborough Hotel in Saskatoon. The gold medal, a beautiful lapel pin, was inscribed with Ivan's name and the torch signifying "From Darkness to Light." On the back was the inscription "In recognition of dedicated service to the blind." It was presented by Rudy Rempel, past president of the Canadian Council of the Blind who described Ivan as an enthusiastic and dedicated worker on behalf of blind and other disabled groups. Along with the 1986 C.C.B. Award, Ivan was given an honorary life membership in the Council. Ileen was presented with a beautiful corsage.

The bilingual citation was read first from Braille. In 1934, at the age of 22, an accident left Ivan totally blind and with a crippled right hand. After convalescence, he commenced employment with the CNIB. While serving in Windsor he was instrumental in organizing a club of the Blind in that city, "The Good Companions" and was elected president for the first three years.

As a direct result of his efforts, with his committee, the first "White Cane

Youth clubs help create tomorrow's better citizens

Wilberforce news

by Winnie Schofield

Those who take the time to become involved in work with Youth Clubs are providing valuable guide lines for our young people who will become the good citizens of tomorrow. A few years ago members of the Wilberforce United Church agreed to sponsor a Boy Scout movement. To-day those on the executive include Jim Deterling, Dennis Weymouth, Morris and Clarence Bradley, Paddy Jordens, Ken Noble, Rockie Graham and John Barker. Mark Smith is a leader for the Scouts, Jerry Solmes with assistance from John Davidson work with the cubs while Lorraine Bordyniuk provides leadership for the Beavers.

On Saturday the boys held their first apple day canvass and found people to be very generous with their donations. Nearly five bushels of apples were dispensed in the areas of Gooderham, Tory Hill, Wilberforce, Harcourt and Highland Grove.

The Lloyd Watson Centre is the meeting place for the Beavers, every Thursday evening from 6:30 to 7:30. The Cubs and Scouts take over from 7:30 to 9:00.

October 5 was Harvest Sunday at St. Margaret's Anglican Church. Coloured leaves of Autumn were scarce this year but there was an abundance of beautiful flowers and vegetables donated by kindly residents. Canned goods also were appreciated as gifts that will be sent to the Church Army in Peterborough following next Sunday's service. Much of this generous contribution will be distributed among needy persons.

Now that the baseball season is over we seldom hear much about activity at Harcourt, but there is plenty of action being planned and in progress at this time. There is the popular Slim and Trim Club that meets every Tuesday at 7:00 p.m. Here the girls meet to take part in exercises to keep them in good physical condition and to create that feeling of well being that comes with doing the right things such as paying attention to diet and keeping in shape. There is a weigh in and encouragement to continue the course. Call Marlene Main at 448-2312 or Mary Ann Tighe at 448-2336 for more information.

At the Harcourt Community Centre there is Bingo held every Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m.

On October 11 there will be a dance at the Community Centre, Harcourt, with country and western music by "Brimstone." The Harcourt ladies committee are planning a Turkey supper for November followed by a dance. More about that later on.

The weekly Bridge Club held their games at the Tory Hill Recreation Centre on Tuesday September 30. Five tables were played. Alex McLeod took first place with 2nd going to Vic Matthews. Gwen Taylor was winner of the booby prize.

Youth activities resume at the Harcourt Community Chapel. The Busy Beavers Boys Club got off to a good start on Tuesday September 30. This year between 30 and 35 boys between the ages of 6 and 12 years have registered. This is the largest group in the seven years that the Busy Beavers has been running. The Girls' Club will be starting the Monday after Thanksgiving. Last year about a dozen girls attended. The leaders look forward to seeing them back again soon. On Friday nights a group of about 20 teenagers (Grade 7 up) meet for an evening of fun and fellowship. The Harcourt Chapel Sunday School which runs all summer has an average attendance in the mid fifties although last Sunday there were 64 present. All of these activities and the other regular services makes Harcourt Community Chapel a place with something for everyone. For more information on any of these activities call 448-2273. The above item from Charles Hughes. Thanksgiving week-end brings in many tourists, most of them coming to close up the cottage. We hope the weather will be fine. This used to be a time to visit the Community Centre where a flea market provided some interest and it was a great time to visit and meet people. For some strange reason this time for people gathering has been discontinued.

This Saturday brings a rummage sale at the church in the morning and open house at the Library from 1 to 4 in the afternoon. Two authors will be there - Richard Pope and Leopolda Dobrzensky. Mrs. Dobrzensky was recently interviewed by Star columnist Frank Jones. Books will be autographed. There will be a flea market in the Library basement and refreshments will be served. Items for the flea market would be greatly appreciated and may be left at the library this week. Taking place in the evening is a dance at the Harcourt Community Centre.

The Monmouth Agricultural Society are serving a turkey dinner on Saturday October 11th. Dinner begins at five p.m. Also on the menu are home made pies. Lloyd Watson Centre is the place.

News has come in about the Dedication of the Wilberforce Full Gospel Church which takes place on Saturday October 11 from 2:00 - 5:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served and everyone is invited to come and join in. On Sunday there will be a special service at the Wilberforce Full Gospel Church which takes place at 11:00 a.m. and will be featuring the Revelation Riders (Christian Motorcycle Club) and music supplied by the Gospel Express. Everyone is invited to attend.

Deadline for course registration is fast approaching

Monday 8 a.m.—Oh yes, that is snow—honestly! Now perhaps we really do have to 'Think Winter', even if we don't think we have had enough summer. Perhaps, I was not premature when I mentioned the Christmas sale last week. Please keep this in mind.

Encyclopedias useful

With the arrival of new sets of World Book Encyclopedia, a new programme of renewal for the reference collection of the County Library has been put into place. The plan will see the immediate placing of new editions of the reference tool in major libraries within the county system where the need is greatest. In making the announcement, Joel Levis, County Librarian said it was the "first step in making the most efficient use of monies which have been set aside for new materials in the system."

Levis said the policy would see a limited number of these and other new reference materials acquired each year and these would be moved from library to library so that no library would have a World Book Encyclopedia older than five years which "is within standards recommended by professional librarians."

"We can't do it overnight" he said, "but we have taken the first step towards an achievable objective. There are changes to be seen in the various branches of the County Library; we could all try to see what they are by visiting the branch near us on a regular basis."

For further information, contact Joel Levis, County Librarian at (705)457-2241.

The Fall Courses for Sir Sandford Fleming College are filling up. There is still time to register but time is running out. Register now to avoid disappointment. Note: No telephone registrations will be accepted.

There is a 'Reflections of Nature' at the Rails' End Gallery. This is an interesting show of marquetry, wood carving and metal sculpture. The craftsmen are Hilary Cole, Doug Nash and Bill Hunnisett who are all from the Muskoka area. 'Imaginary Places' by Carolyn Smith is also on display in the waiting room at the Gallery.

Guild Members—Please return your stubs or tickets for 'A Trip to Portugal,' as the draw will be taking place this Thanksgiving weekend.

Also, please purchase tickets for the 'Westborough Floral Mat' as the draw takes place Oct. 11.

The Rug Hookers are holding their regular monthly meeting this week but they will be holding another meeting on Oct. 20 at 10 a.m. at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden. The Rug Hookers of Gravenhurst have asked our group to join them at their meeting on Oct. 22.

The Choral Society is conducted by Marilyn Stouffer. Their first meeting will be Tuesday, October 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School. Marilyn has asked me to remind you of this year's Concert Series which begins on Monday Oct. 27 at the highschool. We will welcome the combined talents of mezzo-soprano Michele Gaudreau and tenor Timothy Sherwood, with their refreshing interpretations of Gilbert and Sullivan, Offenbach, Gospel songs, etc. Please note a correction about the second show which takes place on Nov. 28--The Cambridge Buskers. The pair of British minstrels will delight you with their wry musical humour. Doug Ingram will be playing the accordion and Michael Copley will be playing flutes, recorders, ocarinas and tin whistles. Tickets are available for the same price as last year, $20 for five musical evenings. Members of the Concert Series Group will have tickets and the tickets are also available at the Rails' End Gallery.

Dance to music by the 'Ugly Rumour' on Saturday, Nov. 29 at the Legion Hall. Tickets are now available at the Rails' End Gallery and the Agnes Jamieson Gallery, at the price of $6 a person. There will be door prizes and a special occasions licence has been obtained for our Guild dance.

The general meeting—a fellowship night for all Guild Members will be held at the Rails' End Gallery on Thursday, Oct. 23 at 8 p.m. The Potters will host this meeting. The guest speaker will be the Rotary exchange student. She will present her slides of Brazil. Please come and enjoy the fellowship.

David, a Canadian Wildlife Artist has his home and gallery located in the Haliburton Highlands. As his talent gains greater recognition, International as well as Canadian collectors continue to purchase his paintings.

Inspired by the surrounding untouched wildlife habitats, David achieves highly realistic portrayals in mediums of acrylic and watercolour. His artwork represents his perception and appreciation for the world of nature and its Creator.

David continues to donate a percentage of the proceeds from his art to organizations that share his concern for less fortunate people in third world countries and Canada.

Letters to the Editor

Potential at its height

To the Editor:

It has been years and years building steam but this writer thinks the recognition The Haliburton Highlands long deserves is peaking.

The residents, seasonal residents, vacationers, tourists vacationland proprietors, businessmen and the local media have long known that the Highlands can offer all Ontario and beyond, a part of Ontario that has no match anywhere for; clean air, unsurpassed beauty in the four seasons and superior hospitality from, as they say the - locals.

Now events have taken place in the Highlands over the past few weeks that substantiate this view.

Premier David Peterson brought his Ontario cabinet to the Haliburton area for several days of Government thinking and as reported in the local media - enjoyment of the peaceful country side and unwinding.

Not to be undone, Opposition leader Larry Grossman journeyed to the area with his caucus and they too stayed several days at a popular vacation resort, taking in the tranquil scenery.

It might have been pure co-incidence but it was not too long after both visits that our Minister of Tourism, John Eakins, MPP Victoria-Haliburton announced that his Ministry was pumping thousands of Tourist dollars into Eastern Ontario to promote - Yours to Enjoy - and these dollars flow over to The Highlands!

Then this past week-end one of Canada's most popular Radio personalities - Wally Crouter, morning man at Toronto CFRB, motored to Haliburton to view the fantastic colours of the Highlands with his wife. Wayne McGillvary, Innkeeper of The PineStone Inn reports that the Crouters more than enjoyed their stay.

With all this momentum peaking for the Highlands and with the frantic construction activities taking place both in retail and vacationland areas I would hope that a combination push by The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, the newly formed business associations, the hundreds of tourist and lodge owners, the councils of the Municipalities and everyone from the waiter or waitress at a tourist resort to the gas pump attendant and yes - the News Media will push the Highlands and keep the momentum rolling!

There has never been a better time.

Administrator 'alright'

Well folks, we are sure getting lots of rain. I guess that's why it is difficult to collect news.

Our church service last Sunday was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Burgess. On Tuesday we had Rev. Phillips of Haliburton. Monday night movies were "Family Camping", "Fabulous Fishing", and "Enchanted Isles."

We have three of our residents home from the hospital; Gordon Ruttle, Mrs. Nesbitt, and Mrs. Casey. We're glad to see them home. I am sorry to report Edna Cowan is in the Haliburton Hospital. We hope she will soon be able to be home again.

Monday afternoon we had a very nice auxiliary meeting, with over 30 members present. We were pleased to have our new Administrator speak to us. As one elderly lady said "He's a bit of alright". Thursday the ladies of Kin-mount Baptist Church came with the Tea Party. The food was delicious and we enjoyed the minister's children very much and also the beautiful music by his wife. We do hope they come again.

Doris took some of us to Wintario Thursday evening. It was enjoyed and some won small amounts. Doris also took a bus load to Lindsay on Friday although the weather was bad. They were glad they went. We had our regular monthly meeting of the Residents Council with a good attendance. We were glad to have Mr. Samuelson present. He seemed interested in our wants and wishes and promised to help in every way possible.

We extend a warm welcome to our new resident, Miss Dora Dawson.

A kindness done to someone sad will make your own heart twice as glad.

of the Rotary Club of Minden attended to review with Council the three submissions received regarding engineering and architectural fees for an addition to the Minden Community Centre. All submissions pointed out the fact that the grant budget was considerably less than would actually be required to construct the proposed addition. The Clerk confirmed that the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation would not consider the enlargement of the current grant, but would consider an amended application for 1987. Funding may also be available for conducting a feasibility study to substantiate the community's needs and ability to carry the additional costs of construction and ongoing maintenance of such an addition.

Brezina confirmed that he would discuss the submissions with the Rotary Club members and report back to Council as soon as possible so that a final decision on this project may be made.

Council agreed to review Section 40 of the Planning Act regarding the implementation of site plan control, and to discuss this issue with municipal planner and staff with a view to drafting a suitable by-law.

Council endorsed a resolution passed by the Corporation of Manvers on September 9, 1986, protesting the relocation of the Township of Manvers to the riding of Durham East from Victoria-Haliburton.

Council endorsed a resolution passed by the Township of Oxford-on-Rideau on July 23, 1986, regarding the establishment of a ceiling on any liability insurance claim.

Approval was given to Louis Reynolds to locate a mobile home on a permanent foundation on part of Lot 18, Concession 7, in the Township of Minden, provided that all by-law provisions are complied with.

Permission was granted to Don Kelly to erect a 8' x 12' illuminated sign on municipal property in Lot 1, Concession 2, Township of Minden, on the understanding that such approval is subject to any use to which the municipality may wish to put this property in the future, and subject to Ministry of Transportation and Communications approval.

Dysart et al regular council meeting briefs...

dated September 8, 1986. A site plan agreement is not required.

By-law 86-26, a By-law to authorize the execution of an agreement between the Corporation of the Township of Dysart et al and Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario and represented by the Minister of the Environment for the acquisition of Provincially-owned sewage works and the assumption of long-term commitment there-fore was given two readings.

Judge Wood will be advised that while the Municipality has no objection to Bell Canada's proposed use of Part of Lot 11, Concession III, in the Township of Havelock, Council is of the opinion that the desired "Judges Order" should apply only to those lands being purchased by Bell Canada and the restrictions on title should remain in place on the balance of the lands.

A special meeting of council was held September 9 to consider the budget for 1986 and other matters:

Council appointed Bradley Abbs as part time metre attendant until further notice.

Combined residential and commercial mill rates for 1986 were adopted as follows: residential 564.48, commercial 664.10.

After careful review and on site visits, Council agreed to allow the installation of a closed loop of copper tubing to be buried in the sand under the lake in front of Lot 3 Plan 579, Redstone Lake, in accordance with plans and specifications filed with the Ministry of Natural Resources. Approval was granted with some reluctance and only because much of the work in connection with this heat pump installation has already been completed. Council noted approval should in no way be construed as a precedent and future applicants for shore line improvements or any installation involving Municipal approval should be aware that approval is not automatic simply because the Ministry of Natural Resources have concurred with the proposal, and that work must not begin until Municipal approval has been granted.

Sir Sandford students attend Dorset fall camp

During the second week of September, 61 students from Sir Sandford Fleming College, Forest Recreation program attended fall camp.

During fall camp, Recreation students reside at the Ministry of Natural Resources Outdoor Educational Centre located near Dorset. This year, the group also spent part of the week at Camp Kandalore, a summer recreational camp situated on Highway 35.

The main purpose of fall camp is to allow students the opportunity to develop recreational skills and to participate in real life recreational projects. Fall camp also offers educational learning experiences in an informal and relaxed format.

Sailing, canoeing, rock climbing, kayaking, windsurfing, cross-country navigation and nature walks were some of the recreational activities in which students participated. During rock climbing, students learned how to tie their own harnesses using ropes before scaling a straight rock face. In addition to equipment skills, students developed concentration, planning, confidence and nerve.

Other hands on activities, such as the construction of three interior campsites, were also accomplished.

Thanksgiving is a very special time of year for me. It always makes me pause and give thanks to Him for all our countless blessings, including family, friends, and food.

ROASTED TURKEY
DRESSING*
GRAVY
WHIPPED POTATOES
CRAN-RASPBERRY SOUR CREAM MOLD*
CREAMY TURNIPS*
PEAS AND MUSHROOMS
WALDORF SALAD*
PUMPKIN PIE*

(with whipped cream of course!)

(* - recipes included)

CRANBERRY COCKTAIL

This is a good beverage, that adults and children both enjoy. Mix equal parts of cranberry juice, apple juice and orange juice. Stir and chill.

TURKEY DRESSING

(This will be enough for a 12 - 15 pound turkey.)

1 loaf of 2-day old white bread, broken up
 1 cup chopped onion
 2 tsp. salt
 1/2 tsp. pepper
 1 tsp. poultry seasoning
 1 tsp. sage
 1/4 cup hard butter cut into cubes
 Mix together and add just enough milk until it will hold together by taking a handful and forming it into a ball. Pack tightly in the turkey.

CRAN-RASPBERRY SOUR CREAM MOLD

6 oz. package raspberry-flavoured gelatin
 1 3/4 cup boiling water
 19 oz. can crushed pineapple
 14 oz. can whole berry cranberry sauce
 1 cup dairy sour cream

Dissolve gelatin in the boiling water. Stir in undrained pineapple and the cranberry sauce till cranberry sauce melts. Chill till partially set. Pour half of the fruit mixture into a 6 1/2 cup ring mold; chill till almost firm (let remaining gelatin stand at room temperature). Stir sour cream; spread evenly over gelatin in mold. Gently spoon remaining gelatin mixture on top of sour cream layer. Chill several hours or overnight. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CREAMY TURNIPS

6 cups turnip, cut into cubes
 2 tsp. salt
 boiling water
 1/3 cup butter
 3 tbsp. brown sugar
 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
 pepper
 3/4 cup dairy sour cream

Put cubed turnips in saucepan and add salt. Cover with boiling water and cook, covered, until turnips are tender, about 15 minutes, drain well. Add butter to drained turnips and sprinkle in brown sugar. Set over low heat, stirring gently with a fork. Add nutmeg and pepper. Blend in sour cream lightly and serve. Serves 6.

WALDORF SALAD

8 cups chopped apple (1 inch pieces with peel left on)
 2 cups chopped celery
 1 cup raisins or chopped dates
 1 cup fine coconut
 1 cup salad dressing

Make this salad about 2 hours before serving time. Mix together the first four ingredients. Add salad dressing and stir just enough to coat the apples. Serve in a bowl lined with lettuce leaves. Serves 6.

PUMPKIN PIE

(This is a delicious pie - I always make two!)

2 eggs
 1 cup light cream
 14 oz. can pumpkin
 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 2 tbsp. molasses
 1 tsp. ground ginger
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 1/2 tsp. ground cloves
 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1 unbaked pastry shell for a 9-inch deep pie
 1 tsp. light cream

In a large bowl, beat together eggs and 1 cup light cream. Blend in pumpkin, sugar, molasses, ginger, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and salt. Pour into pie shell; drizzle remaining cream in a coil pattern in middle of pie and swirl with a spoon to incorporate slightly into filling (this will produce a marble effect.) Bake in 425 degree oven for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and continue baking another 30 minutes or until knife inserted into centre comes out clean. Let cool on rack. Serves 6.

Former moderator enjoys anniversary

Carnarvon

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. James Winn (Barbara Barnhart) on the birth of a son, third grandson for Jack and Roacan Barnhart.

We welcome Mrs. Doris Jennings to the village. She purchased the home formerly owned by Roger and Jean Thomas. And our best wishes to Ken and Betty Campbell who are now living in what was Don's home on Halls Lake. Someone also is moving into Alkamali Resort, formerly the Campbell home.

The Mifflin store on Highway 35 is open for business as usual now that they are back from their month's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Thomas of Peterborough and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Thomas of Scarborough were at their home on Twelve Mile Lake for the weekend.

We extend warm wedding anniversary wishes to Doctor Robert and Amy McClure on the occasion of their sixtieth anniversary. Dr. McClure is a past Moderator of the United Church. A reception was held at Bloor Street United. Attending from our area were son Mr. and Mrs. Doug McClure and good friends Frank and Nancy Irvine of Comak Island.

The October meeting of the U.C.W. was held on Wednesday October 1 at the Christian Education Building.

Happy Thanksgiving to all our readers. It is a pity our colour is almost over, but there is lots of activity planned in the area and many restaurants are catering a Thanksgiving dinner.

gion, Friday October 3.

Some 80 years or so ago two young girls went to school together in a small town called Harbour Grace in Newfoundland. One of them named Eunice Downey, lived on a street named for her family, Downey Street. The other little girl was Mary Louisa or Louie as she was called. Ash. They each grew up as little girls do, got married and started a family of their own. Louie at the time, lived on Landy Pond Road and later moved to St. Johns where she had the first of six children born to her and her husband Bob Pyke. Eunice married and her name became Watchhorn. At a future date each of the now married young ladies moved to Toronto. They lost track of one another some 60 years ago until a younger brother of Louie's died on June 1, 1982. Mrs. Watchhorn, reading the obits that night took a chance on Louisa Pyke of Norland mentioned in the obituary as being her long lost friend, wrote, asking if indeed she maybe the one. Well, this past Saturday, October 4, Eunice came up to stay with her friend Louie for a week or so and there's been plenty of planning going on. These ladies have about 180 or 182 years in age between them, each being over 90 years of age. There will certainly be some tall tales going on here if I know my Mom.

This being Mrs. Watchhorn's first visit to our north country we are hoping to show her around as much as possible. This is being written the night before her arrival and as I am told I was about four years old the last time I saw her, I am looking forward to the big event.

Have a happy and bountiful Thanksgiving, stay well, read the Echo and give me a call at 488-2353.

I hope Vi Crego is feeling better soon. Vi, recently spent some time in hospital and is now recuperating at her home in Kinmount.

Ivan Jones is also now at home and getting better each day.

Don't forget to get your old snaps/photos of yourselves into the ballot boxes of Kinmount Railroad Station, Public School or the Library right away. They have to be all gone through and numbered and the contest day draws closer, October 25. Take in as many pictures of yourselves as you like, just remember to have your name on the back of them.

Dear Teenager...

Church news

by June Devolin

Dear Teenager,

You are growing up in a rapidly changing world, and having to make a lot of decisions. Some of those decisions are very important ones. There are very few moral absolutes anymore so decision making can be difficult. So few things seem clearly black and white - many things fall into that murky gray area. The creed which follows may give you some guidelines. I do not know its author but it is posted up in at least a couple of homes that I know, where there are teenagers. Perhaps you would like to clip it out and post it on your bulletin board. I hope that you enjoy it.

TEEN CREED

Don't let your parents down, they brought you up.
Be humble enough to obey, you may give orders someday.
Choose only a date who would make a good mate.
Be master of your habits, or they will master you.
Don't be a show-off when you drive, drive with safety and arrive.
Don't let the crowd pressure you; stand for something or You'll fall for anything.

Child identification service

By Jane Selbie

Haliburton County is a special area to live in. Our beautiful scenery and small town atmosphere makes for a wonderful place to raise a family or retire.

Listening to the many episodes in the last years where similarly idyllic locations have experienced the disappearance of young children reminds us that we are part of a changing world. We can protect our children to be more cautious by teaching basic street-proofing techniques.

On Saturday October 18, from 10-4, the Newmarket Civitan Club in conjunction with the Haliburton Royal Canadian Legion will be offering a child identification service. Parents can bring their children to have their photographs taken along with their fingerprints. There is a minimal charge of $1 per child. Those who participated a couple of years ago should bring the identification card with them for up-date. This identification card becomes part of the family records. In the event of a disappearance parents can give an accurate detailed description of the police to offer helpful tracing information which could cut valuable time.

No one wants to think about such a horrible experience. However, involving yourselves as a family to take these precautions and discussing the topic constructively might be a loving exercise that stresses the importance of safety issues.

Social club active

Dorset news

by Phyllis Briscoe

Some of the Canadian geese have wended their way south, but there are still a flock of ducks that are getting free rations from Eldren and Clinton MacKay at the shore in front of their home on the bay. They are apparently very demanding and if they are not able to find the food laid out on the shore they go up the incline, cross the road and follow the driveway to the back door. They really know how to take advantage of a good thing.

Eric Hamilton has spent the summer once again at his summer home on the island at Paint Lake. Eric, who lives in Toronto, has spent the last 80 summers, consecutively, at this location, having been brought here by his parents when he was five months old. He has always enjoyed the scenery and people of the area and intends coming back each summer indefinitely.

The Dorset Social Club is going strong with 27 people, including three guests, for Bingo last Wednesday. There is a group from the club that is taking in a bus trip to Niagara Falls, in early December, to see the Christmas festival of lights. Sounds like a fun trip. The Lapidary group is starting up this week and a lot of enthusiastic interest is being shown by the members.

The group that are participating in the Aqua-fitness classes at Hidden Valley are enjoying the session and feeling more energetic and healthy due to the activity.

Jack and Irene Clayton are back from a week's holiday in which they visited New Liskard, North Bay, Sudbury, Manitoulin, Tobermory, Creamore and other spots. In some cities they dropped into pay a visit to relatives and visited the Science Centre in Sudbury. The scenery was beautiful along the way, and they were able to enjoy the beautiful fall colours on their travels as well as when they returned home.

H.H. To ripen tomatoes indoors do not put them in the sunlight. This only softens them instead of ripening. Place them in a dark area where they will not be exposed to the sunlight, a towel drawer or the like.

Kinsmen hold annual Demolition Derby Saturday

Minden news

by Maizie Austin

Happy birthday to Mary-Lou Packard on Sunday October 5, Keegan Chiasson on Monday October 6 and Stephen Stevens on Tuesday October 7.

Happy anniversary to Darlene and Brian Madill on Saturday October 4.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Francis (Sally) Shelly, also the family and friends of Monica MacNab.

If you have any news for me to include in my column please call 286-3607 before 10 a.m. on the Monday morning so your news will appear in the Wednesday paper. Thank you.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burkett of Ingoldsby on the occasion of the 55th wedding anniversary.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Laura Davidson (Austen).

The Minden and District Lions Club are hosting a live Winario on Thursday October 2 at the Minden Community Centre.

A speedy recovery to Raymond McKay, Tina Gilbert and Wayne Anderson. Get well soon. Congratulations to Glenda Horsley and Stephen Sansome who were married on Saturday September 27.

The Minden District Lion's Club are having a Walk-a-dog-athon on Sunday October 5, starting at the Minden Community Centre at 1 p.m. All proceeds go to canine vision in Oakville.

We have David's brother Chuck, sister-in-law Carol Archer and his cousin Jerry of Eden visit with us Saturday evening.

Congratulations to Laurie McKnight and Douglas Devolin who were married on Saturday September 27.

Household hint: Stains left behind when tub decals are removed can easily be removed by filling the tub with hot water and adding 1/2 cup (125 ml) of automatic dishwasher detergent. Let soak, drain tub and rinse.

A belated happy 35th anniversary to Blanche and Harvey MacIntosh who's anniversary was Monday September 22.

Mrs. H. of Fort Erie sends her sincerest sympathy to the McNab family on the recent loss of both parents, Monica and Donald McNab.

The winners of the Thursday afternoon euchre games at the Anglican Church were the following: lone hands Clarence Straus, others were Betty MacDonald, Eleanor Gilcrest, Don Sinclair and Jack Weeks. The euchre games will be held on Friday for this week only at the usual time but will return to Thursday for the next games, on October 9.

We are glad to hear Phil Robinson is home following tests in St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough. Keep well Phil.

On Saturday September 27 the 50-50 draw of $123 was won by Ed Bunville of Kinmount.

All of our fortunes lie beneath our hats. On Saturday September 27 some of the Minden Brownies and Girl Guides joined a number of girls from Haliburton and surrounding areas for a training day. The event took place at the Haliburton Senior Elementary School. The day was divided into four areas, drama, crafts, music and dance. They would like to thank everyone that helped to make this day possible and are looking forward to many more events in the year to come.

This week the Minden Guides will be helping at the live Wintario at the Minden Community Centre. This will be a nice experience for the girls.

A belated happy birthday to May Oliver who's birthday was Friday September 26.

Congratulations to Ruby and Mervin Gilbert on the occasion of their wedding anniversary on Friday October 3.

Recipe for this week: Tomato Aspic 1 tbsp. unflavoured gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 2 cups canned tomatoes or fresh cooked tomatoes, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 bay leaf, a few grains salt, cayenne and paprika, 1 tbsp. white vinegar and 1 tbsp. onion-juice. Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine tomatoes, celery, bay leaf, salt, cayenne and paprika in a sauce pan. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Stir in vinegar and onion juice. Strain. Turn into cold wet 8 inch mold or individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on lettuce. Place dressing in small cup and place cup in centre of aspic. Garnish.

That's all for this week. Drive with care and watch for the children getting on and off the school buses. I hope to see you all next week.

THIS WEEK

I'm sorry about last week's news, but it left my hands. If it shows up, they'll probably print it. Better late than never.

It's good to see Raymond McKay out and about following an operation recently. We wish you a speedy recovery, Raymond.

Happy birthday to Mrs. Wilfred Ackerblade on Monday October 13.

A speedy recovery to Phillip Corby. I hope you're feeling better soon.

Happy birthday to Bert Harrison on Sunday October 12. The family will be having open house on Saturday afternoon and evening at the home of Bert for anyone wishing to drop in to visit Mr. Harrison for his birthday.

A belated happy birthday to Lucy Burgess who's birthday was on Monday October 6.

The euchre card party winners at the Minden Anglican Church were the following: lone hands Greta Alsop; others were Joyce Hewitt, Norah Briggs, Florence Schlosser and Joe Dollo.

Happy birthday to Kelly Aggot on Friday October 10 and Walker Coe on Saturday October 11.

Household hint: The dishwasher can be cleaned and disinfected too by putting 125 ml of chlorine bleach in the empty machine and running it in a regular wash cycle.

The motorized mayhem returns to Minden on Saturday October 11. The Minden Kinsmen are putting on their annual Demolition Derby at the Minden Fairgrounds.

As I write this column the snow is beginning to fall. I for one was not looking forward for the snow to start to fall so early.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Richard Haywood, who was killed in a single car accident near West Guilford last Tuesday.

People and places of Victoria County will be the theme of artist Chuck Burns' exhibit at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery from October 11 to October 31. Mr. Burns will be at the gallery from 2 to 5 p.m. for the grand opening.

The annual Thanksgiving Turkey Dinner will be held at St. Peter's Anglican Church in Maple Lake on Saturday October 11. Table settings are at 4:30, 5:30 and 6:30. Tickets are on sale at the Church at 1 p.m.

The Minden Agricultural Society will be meeting on Wednesday October 8 at 7:30 in the Council Chambers.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Manser (nee Brenda Toye) who were married recently.

Stedmans has opened the recently evacuated Minden I.G.A. for joys and Christmas supplies.

Congratulations to Myrna McCarthy who won a trip to Florida and Walt Disney World in the Travel Magic contest at the Minden Valu-Mart.

I appreciate the birthday cards, and birthday wishes and phone calls. I would like to thank you all for thinking of me on my birthday, also the phone calls inquiring of my health following a frightening experience last Saturday evening. Thank you all.

If you have any news for me to include in my column please call 286-3607 before 10 a.m. on the Monday morning so your news will appear in the Wednesday paper.

That's all for this week. Drive with care and watch for the children getting on and off the school buses. I hope to see you all next week.

Membership is growing Bursary reaches $14,000

Legion News

By Gerald Irish

Membership in Branch 129 is still growing. Your Branch is one of the few to boast of this increase. In July of 1985 Legionnaires on our Bulletin mailing list numbered 676. This month's mailing list has over 800 names on it. Such a large increase is due in part to the renewed interest in Branch activities and the pride of the members in the changed appearance and atmosphere in the building. New members initiated last Thursday evening were Bill Peacock, Pat Hamill and Barry Boice. We extend a warm Branch 129 welcome to them.

Donations of $50 to the CNIB, $200 to the Haliburton Minor Hockey Association and $1000 to the Ontario Command Charitable Foundation were approved at the General meeting. The annual awards ceremonies are coming up soon. If you should receive a year's award pin please let Honours and Awards Chairman Comrade Bruce McKay know or leave this information - in writing - at the Branch office.

Do you have your costume ready for the Hal-lowe'en Dance and Party to be held in the Club Room on November 1st?

On November 7, the annual Hunters' Ball will be held at the Legion. The very popular group, Cimmeron, will be playing for your dancing enjoyment. There will be spot dance prizes, a door prize and a special 50-50 draw at the dance.

When you are initiated into Legion, one of your pledges is "active participation in Poppy campaigns." Your Poppy Chairman, Comrade Irv Chambers, is now seeking your help for this year's campaign. Please volunteer your assistance. Irv wants this campaign to be the most successful ever but he needs all Legionnaires to pitch in and help - especially members from the Minden area.

The proposed budget for Bluegrass 1987 was approved by the membership at the general meeting. At that meeting your Branch bluegrass committee received a very generous donation of $1000 from the Ladies' Auxiliary. Thank you ladies, not only for this cheque but also for your pledge of support for future bluegrass festivals.

The ladies auxiliary is always very busy. On October 18, they will be hosting the zone cribbage championships, and on November 22, the district cribbage championships.

Male volunteers are needed to serve at these tournaments. If you can help, contact Comrade Irene Higgins. The L.A. invites everyone in the Branch to attend the Zone Fun Night to be held in the Legion auditorium on October 25.

Our best wishes for a complete and speedy recovery go out to the following comrades on our sick and visiting list: Len Pearl, Bert Howe, Neale Woodcock, George Hunter, Alton Duncan and George Hunt.

Last Tuesday, D.V.A. representative, Gary Barker, had 14 interviews with local veterans. Gary will also be representing the Department of Veterans' Affairs at the wreath laying ceremonies on Remembrance Day.

At the October 2 meeting, Mr. Henderson and Mrs. Braden, spoke to the members about the services being offered by the Five Counties Children's Centre. They impressed on us the necessity for financial assistance in order to continue and expand the services offered to the children of the five counties being served.

Bob Thompson has donated a beautiful, framed picture of a Mosquito Bomber the only totally Canadian constructed plane to see war service. There is also an interesting article about Chester Schwandt who flew in a Mosquito bomber during the war.

Norland news

by Kelly Graham

I hope you had a great week. I know you had a wet one! The rain is certainly unappreciated by the many men who are off to the deep woods to hunt moose. Good luck to all.

Thanks to everyone who donated to the Robert Jamieson Bursary fund. The fund is being used to provide bursaries to former students of the six northern schools (Norland, Coboconk, Kinmount, Kirkfield, St. John's, Burnt River) who have graduated from FFSS and are pursuing a career in medicine, nursing or science.

To date over $14,000 has been raised! It is, however, an open bursary so if you still want to donate call Bev Graham at 454-3707. So far the fund has been an outstanding example of generosity and community spirit.

Don't forget the Thanksgiving Dinner on October 11. It will be served at the new Norland Recreation Centre from 4 o'clock to six p.m. If you wish to purchase tickets you may do so at Pine 'n Patches or at the Norland Township office. A dance will also be held at the centre that night. For more information on the dance please call Rudy Janke at 454-8755. By the way the hall will be heated for those occasions.

Before you know it Hal-lowe'en will be upon us. Yet another dance at the hall is planned for that occasion, on November 1.

Rudy and Ruth Janke and Francis Gunn of Norland recently returned from a week-long trip to Vancouver, British Columbia, where they viewed Expo.

October 20 to 25 is Ontario Library Week. The Norland Public Library will be running some special activities during that time.

I don't have all the details right now but I promise I'll publish them next week.

Well, it's time to close another column. Until next week, stay healthy and happy.

Gooderham news

Week", using the White Cane as a symbol of blindness was held in February 1946. Two years later he was appointed chairman of finance.

The C.C.B. became officially incorporated in May 1950, when by letters patent, a federal charter was granted to the organization, duly signed and sealed by the Secretary of State of Canada. Ivan was one of the officers of the C.C.B. who signed the original charter on behalf of the Council.

In 1952 Ivan was elected first vice president of the Council, serving in all phases of the organization's operations, representing the president on occasions and as a member of deputations to Ottawa seeking a Blind Person's Act and better pensions. Four years later it was necessary to withdraw from active participation with the C.C.B. because of his employment responsibilities with the CNIB.

In 1976 he retired from the CNIB and returned to Gooderham to reside where he again became involved in community work.

In his reply Ivan paid tribute to his wife, Ileen, for the great help she gave him.

After the presentation and banquet, Ivan and Ileen left for Spruce Grove where they enjoyed an all too short week's visit with their daughter, Gayle, son-in-law, Bill, and granddaughters, Karin and Samantha.

We congratulate Ivan on being the recipient of this high honour, so richly deserved. We trust he continues to enjoy good health and is able to carry on serving not only his fellow blind but also his community.

Students read for MS

Once again elementary school children in Haliburton County will be participating in the annual Multiple Sclerosis READ-a-thon. By signing their name to read books, students at Cardiff school will raise money for the research projects of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada.

Multiple Sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system which may cause loss of co-ordination, tremors, double vision, extreme fatigue, or even paralysis. M.S. usually strikes adults between the ages of 15 and 50, and for 50,000 Canadians, there is no known cause or cure.

Participating students will read until November 14 and will have collected and mailed their money by November 21. The children are encouraged to have only friends and family sponsor them for each book they read.

Last year's successful campaign grossed nearly a million dollars in Ontario alone for research and patient services.

IN MEMORIAM

SAWYER, CLARE.
In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away October 10, 1982.

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
As I journey toward life's sunset
Mourning him who went before,
Faith assures me, I'll be with him
When I reach the other shore.
Lovingly missed by wife Josephine and son Gary.
32-P-8

SAWYER, CLARE
In loving memory of my Dad, who passed away October 10, 1982.

Beautiful memories,
Are wonderful things,
They last through the longest day,
They never wear out,
They never get lost,
And can never be given away.
To some he may be forgotten
To others a part of the past,
But to me, who loved and lost him,
His memory will always last.
Fondly remembered by Deloris.

IN MEMORIAM

SAWYER, CLARE.
In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, who passed away October 10, 1982.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried,
If love could have saved you Dad
You never would have died.
Things we feel most deeply
Are the hardest things to say,
Dad, we loved you
In a very special way.
If we could have one lifetime wish
One dream that could come true,
We'd pray to God with all our hearts,
For yesterday and you.
Lovingly remembered by daughter Devona, son-in-law Al and family.

DEATH NOTICE

HUNTER, Aldridge John.
In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Aldridge John, who passed away October 14, 1985. Though his smile has gone forever and his hand we cannot touch, still we have so many memories of the one we loved so much.
Lovingly remembered by Gladys and family.
32-P-8

HUNTER, Aldridge.
In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Aldridge, who passed away October 14, 1985.

When thoughts go back
As they often do
We treasure the memory
We have of you
This day is remembered
And quietly kept
No words are needed
We shall never forget.
Sadly missed by Grant, June and Cory.
